He resided in Plantsville, Southington, and many notable examples of his skill are to be seen in that section of the county. Thoroughly reliable in all things, the quality of his work was a convincing proof of his own personal worth, and the same admirable trait was shown in his conscientious discharge of his duties of different positions of trust and responsibility to which he was chosen. He was an active and prominent member of the Second Baptist Church of Plantsville, of which he was a deacon for many years. He was a Republican; assessor; grand juror; notary public; justice of the peace; burgess; member of the State Legislature two terms; the G. A. R., and manager of the Southington and Plantsville Tramway Co.

The first of these is the fact that the English language is a very young language. It is only about 1,000 years old. This is because the English language is a mixture of many different languages. The most important of these are Old English, Old Norse, and Old French. Old English is the language of the Anglo-Saxons. Old Norse is the language of the Vikings. Old French is the language of the Normans. The English language is a mixture of these three languages. This is why the English language is so different from other languages. It has many words and phrases that are not found in other languages. This is why the English language is so interesting and so useful.

The second of these is the fact that the English language is a very flexible language. It can be used in many different ways. It can be used to talk about things that are very important. It can be used to talk about things that are very funny. It can be used to talk about things that are very strange. This is why the English language is so popular. It is a language that can be used in many different ways. This is why the English language is so interesting and so useful.

The third of these is the fact that the English language is a very powerful language. It is a language that can be used to change the world. It is a language that can be used to make things better. It is a language that can be used to make things worse. This is why the English language is so important. It is a language that can be used in many different ways. This is why the English language is so interesting and so useful.

The fourth of these is the fact that the English language is a very beautiful language. It is a language that is full of words and phrases that are very beautiful. It is a language that is full of words and phrases that are very interesting. This is why the English language is so popular. It is a language that can be used in many different ways. This is why the English language is so interesting and so useful.

the majority of living things in the soil are small. The larger ones, such as earthworms, are few in number. The small ones, such as bacteria, are very numerous. The small ones are the most important. They are the ones that do the most work. They are the ones that break down the dead matter and make it available for the plants. They are the ones that keep the soil healthy. They are the ones that make the soil fertile. They are the ones that make the soil a good place for the plants to grow. They are the ones that make the soil a good place for the animals to live. They are the ones that make the soil a good place for the whole world to live.

It is a well-known fact that the medical profession has been the subject of much criticism and attack in recent years. This is due to many causes, but one of the most important is the fact that the public has become more educated and more critical of the actions of the medical profession. This has led to a demand for more information and a more active role in the management of their own health. The medical profession has responded to this demand by making many improvements in its services, but it has also been criticized for its failure to do so more quickly and thoroughly. The following are some of the reasons for the criticism of the medical profession:

1. The medical profession has been criticized for its failure to keep up with the latest advances in medical science. This is due to the fact that the medical profession is a conservative one, and it has been slow to accept new ideas and methods. This has led to a lag in the development of new treatments and procedures, and it has also led to a lack of interest in research and development. The medical profession has responded to this criticism by making many improvements in its services, but it has also been criticized for its failure to do so more quickly and thoroughly.

2. The medical profession has been criticized for its failure to provide adequate care to all patients. This is due to the fact that the medical profession is a profit-making one, and it has been slow to accept the principle of universal care. This has led to a system of care in which the rich get the best care and the poor get the worst. The medical profession has responded to this criticism by making many improvements in its services, but it has also been criticized for its failure to do so more quickly and thoroughly.

3. The medical profession has been criticized for its failure to provide adequate information to patients. This is due to the fact that the medical profession has been slow to accept the principle of patient education. This has led to a system of care in which the patient is passive and the doctor is active. The medical profession has responded to this criticism by making many improvements in its services, but it has also been criticized for its failure to do so more quickly and thoroughly.

There is a great deal of interest in the study of the history of the United States, and it is not surprising that many of the best writers on the subject have been Americans. The history of the United States is a story of the growth of a great nation from a small colony of English settlers. It is a story of the struggle for freedom and independence, and of the development of a new form of government. Cowles began life in East Hartford, where as a small boy one of his remembrances was of seeing General Lafayette drive through in his coach. In 1832, when he was twenty, his father died and he gave up the ambition of his life, which was to be a clergyman, in order to assist in the support of his mother and younger brothers and sisters. Three years before this he was attracted to Springfield, his older brother Henry Brainard Cowles having gone there in 1829 and found employment on that famous old paper, the Springfield Republican. The younger brother, after several changes of residence from Springfield to East Hartford and Westfield, finally in 1835 settled for good in Springfield. Here for many years he was engaged in manufacturing candy. He retired from business before he was sixty and the interests of the last thirty years of his life were largely centered in his church and his books. He was always a devoted church member and for many years a deacon, and after he was too old for active service he was deacon emeritus. He was one of the founders of the South Congregational Church, an offshoot from the original First Congregational Church, and was closely identified with its interests as treasurer, deacon, etc. He was a quiet, unassuming man of most beautiful Christian character, and was revered by all who knew him. With his father's family he moved to Otsego County, N. Y., when he was ten years of age. There he attended district school a few terms, working on a farm or in the woods in summer. When he was 23 years old, he removed to Bolivar, N. Y., settled down and cleared up a farm. There his life was passed. When he settled in Bolivar it consisted of six log houses, and he followed the trail through the woods from Angelica, which was then the nearest point to the turnpike that wound among the hills across the State. He walked from Otsego County, a distance of 200 miles. For several years he had the distinction of being the oldest resident of Bolivar, and one of the oldest of the county. He possessed a good memory, was a fountain of information in regard to the early history and had many anecdotes of the times gone by. Up to a year before his death he was able to walk down town and spend several hours at his favorite haunts. After then he was scarcely out of the house. His sight failed him at intervals, his mind wandered and when death came it found him a child again. He was familiarly and affectionately known as "Uncle Ben." (Hist. of Allegany Co., N. Y., 1896.)

The publishing house was Nichols & Cowles until 1887, when after the death of Mr. Nichols, Mr. Cowles became sole owner. The Democrat has a circulation of about 2,000, is the only paper promulgating Democratic doctrine in the county, and under Mr. Cowles' management, has become a power in local politics, and a successful business enterprise. As evidence of this, in April, 1893, when retrenchment was the order of the day, the Democrat was enlarged to a 9-column paper. Mr. Cowles as an editor possesses a rare power of

APPENDIX

1. The first of these is the fact that the number of cases of the disease is not proportional to the number of persons exposed to the disease. This is true of all the diseases which are caused by a specific micro-organism. The number of cases is proportional to the number of persons exposed to the disease, but only up to a certain point. After this point, the number of cases remains constant, no matter how many more persons are exposed to the disease. This is because the number of persons who are susceptible to the disease is limited. Once all the susceptible persons have been infected, no more cases can occur.
2. The second of these is the fact that the disease is not contagious. This is true of all the diseases which are caused by a specific micro-organism. The disease is not contagious because the micro-organism is not able to pass from one person to another. The micro-organism is only able to pass from one person to another if the person is exposed to the micro-organism in a certain way. This is why it is so important to take precautions against exposure to the micro-organism.
3. The third of these is the fact that the disease is not fatal. This is true of all the diseases which are caused by a specific micro-organism. The disease is not fatal because the micro-organism is not able to cause death. The micro-organism is only able to cause death if the person is exposed to the micro-organism in a certain way. This is why it is so important to take precautions against exposure to the micro-organism.

It is important to note that the above are only generalizations. There are many exceptions to these rules. For example, some diseases are contagious, and some are fatal. However, the above are the general rules which apply to most diseases caused by a specific micro-organism.

He was a man of brilliant mental attainments. He and his brother Alfred H. Cowles were the patentees of a number of important pioneer patents relating to electric smelting, and the manufacture of aluminum, calcium carbide, carborundum and other products. They founded, in 1885, The Cowles Electric Smelting & Aluminum Company of Lockport, N. Y., which afterwards was absorbed by The Electric Smelting & Aluminum Company, in 1904.

5741. Florence Hale, b. Aug. 22, 1880, at Cleveland, Ohio; m. 1915, Capt. Paul Hurst, U. S. Infantry, and had one child in 1917.

3731. ALFRED HUTCHINSON^s COWLES, son of Edwin^r (1719), b. Dec. 8, 1858, in Cleveland, Ohio; m. Oct. 25, 1906, Helen J., dau. of Mr. and Mrs. James Mortimer Wills of Akron, Ohio. The following biographical sketch of Mr. Cowles is extracted from the National Encyclopedia of American Biography:

"He spent two years at Ohio State University, studying chemistry and physics, and four years at Cornell University, specializing in science and finishing in 1882. At Cornell he was on the freshman eight-oared crew that won the race with Harvard in 1878; was on the university crew that won at Lake George in 1880; one of the crew that raced at Henley, Eng., for the famous Steward's Challenge Cup in 1881, and on the Danube in the same year, and was captain of the 'varsity' four-oared crew in 1882. His father having invested in ore lands in New Mexico, Mr. Cowles and his brother, Eugene H., became interested in developing that property. The ordinary methods of treating the ore proved unavailing and the brothers began to consider the possibilities of an electric furnace to volatilize and catch the zinc in the ore. They designed such a furnace and Alfred Cowles commenced a series of experiments in the pyro-electric induction of various metallic oxides, which proved to be the most valuable contribution to the science of electro-metallurgy in the nineteenth century. Like so many other inventions of first importance, other minds were at work on the same problem at the same time; namely, Charles S. Bradley in America, and in 1887 Dr. Paul Heroult and Adolphe Minet in France. In the subsequent suits for infringement of patents the evidence was conclusive that the Cowles brothers were the first to use the electric furnace in the production of aluminum, carborundum, silicon, calcium carbide, phosphorus and various alloys. * * * The Cowles Electric Smelting and Aluminum Co. was organized with a capital stock of $200,000 (increased to $1,000,000), and in 1886 a water-power plant was completed at Lockport, N. Y., where a new generator, designed by Charles F. Brush of the Brush Electric Co., was installed. The generator was the largest in the world at the time, and the plant was the first for electric smelting in the world. * * *

Mr. Cowles was metallurgist of the company for eight years, and then became president. In 1895, the company was reorganized as the Electric Smelting and Aluminum Co. The chemical plant is now (1929) located at Sewaren, N. J. Mr. Cowles is president of the company. He is also president of the Pecos Copper Co., fellow of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, a founder member of the Mining and Metallurgical Society of America, a member of the U. S. Naval Institute, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the Franklin Institute, and one of the founders and a past vice-president of the American Electro-

Chemical Society. He is treasurer of the Cowles Family Association, to the aims of which he has been a generous contributor, financially and otherwise. (See Who's Who in America, Vol. IX and the Preface; also Who's Who in Engineering, 1922-23; also Biography of Alfred H. Cowles by the Writer's Press Association, N. Y., 1927.)

Oct. 14, 1817, in Harpersfield, Ohio; d. May 13, 1889, at Baraboo, Wis. She was converted and united with the Congregational Church at the age of thirteen and was one of the original members of the Congregational Church of Baraboo. Those who knew her best loved her most. Her kindness of heart found expression in generous acts rather than many words and her active life was one of obedience to the Saviour's command, "When thou makest a feast call the poor."

Dr. Cowles received a common school education; spent a year at Oberlin College; read medicine at Gull Prairie, Mich.; took lectures at Willoughby, Ohio; received his diploma, Feb. 25, 1845; followed his father's family to the then wilderness, Baraboo Valley, making his residence there in May, 1846. He had a strong, active and comely physique, with a nice blending of nervous and bilious temperament and a buoyancy of spirit that but few possess in so large a degree. His presence would make a sick man well without a pill. His endurance was unbounded. He possessed a quick, active and yet reflective brain, was a skillful physician, charitable to the poor, prodigally liberal to the church, strong in his moral nature; he was brave, often eloquent, and always bold in advocating what he believed to be right. While slavery existed he was a positive, active, political abolitionist; an enthusiastic, powerful temperance lecturer, a Christian whose prayers were more from the ends of his fingers than from his lips. He practiced medicine for more than 40 years.

The following biographical sketch (with portrait) appeared in "The World's" History of Cleveland, Ohio, published in 1896:

"John G. W. Cowles was born at Oberlin, Ohio, March 14, 1836. His father was Rev. Henry Cowles, a professor in Oberlin College and Theological Seminary, and his mother, Mrs. Alice Welch Cowles, was the principal of the ladies department in that college. Mr. Cowles spent the first twenty-three years of his life in his native town, receiving his education in the public schools, and in the preparatory, collegiate and theological departments of the college. He graduated from college in 1856 [A.B.; A.M. 1859; LL.D. 1898] and from the theological seminary in 1859. Beginning in 1858, while yet a student, he was the minister of the Congregational Church in Bellevue, Ohio, till the fall of 1861, when he became chaplain of the 55th Regiment of Ohio Volunteer Infantry, and served in that capacity with the army in Virginia, until the fall of 1862, when he resigned his commission to take the pastorate of the Congregational Church in Mansfield, Ohio. In 1865, he accepted a call to the Congregational Church in East Saginaw, Mich., where he remained six years. During this period, being disabled from preaching for a year, he was employed as an editorial writer for the Saginaw Enterprise, the Republican daily newspaper then published in that city. But finding at length that he must give up public speaking for a longer time, perhaps permanently, he resigned his charge in January, 1871, and took a position offered him by the late Edwin Cowles (1719), as associate editor of the Cleveland Leader. The leading editorials in the Leader in the years 1871-1873 were the work of his pen. While so employed, Mr. Cowles became interested by purchase for himself and friends in several real estate investments in the rapidly-growing city. It was a period of speculation and inflated values. When the reaction came with the panic in the fall of 1873, Mr. Cowles found it necessary to give his whole attention to the real estate business, in order to rescue the enterprises in which he had invested, and himself with them, from financial failure. This he was able to accomplish, so that in 1891, or after eighteen years, the liabilities created before that disastrous panic were discharged. From 1880 to the present time, Mr. Cowles' business as a real estate agent has been mostly in the sale, leasing and improvement of centrally-located business property. For ten years past his transactions have averaged more than a million dollars yearly. Mr. Cowles is President of the Cleveland Trust Company, having been elected to the office on the organization of that company in 1895, and re-elected at its first annual meeting, held in January, 1896. He is a Republican in politics, but has never been a candidate for office or held any political position. For more than twenty years he has been a member of the Board of Trustees of Oberlin College. He is a member, and one of the Directors, of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, and up to April 15th, 1896, was its first Vice-President. On that date he was elected President of the Chamber, a position he now holds. He is also a member of the Loyal Legion, of the Army and Navy Post of the G. A. R., of the New England Society, and of the Union Club. During nearly all of the twenty-six years of his residence in this city, he has been an active member and deacon of the Plymouth Congregational Church. In 1859 Mr. Cowles married Miss Lois M. Church of Vermillion[?], Mich., who had been a student in, and was a graduate of, Oberlin College. They have had four children—two daughters and two sons. Both the latter are deceased. The elder daughter is the wife of Rev. John Doane, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational Church, at Lincoln, Neb."

Mr. Cowles became chaplain of the 55th Ohio Vol. Inf., Dec. 10, 1861, and resigned Aug. 7, 1862. He was one of Cleveland's most wealthy and influential citizens and for many years managed the real estate and financial interests of John D. Rockefeller in that section, and served as a teacher or officer at Oberlin College, 1874-

1914 (see History of the Mansfield, Ohio Congregational Church, 1882; Who's Who in America, Vol. VIII and XI; Nat. Cyclop. Am. Biog., I: 225, and IX: 113, portrait.)

3909. JOHN PHELPS, JR.⁸ COWLES, son of Rev. John Phelps⁷ (1884), b. Jan. 23, 1844, in Elyria, Ohio; m. Jan. 6, 1885, in Foochow, China, Sigourney Trask, b. June 14, 1849, in Spring Creek, Warren Co., Pa., dau. of Rufus Elliott Trask, son of Samuel who moved in the latter part of the 18th century from Massachusetts to northwestern Pennsylvania. R. E. Trask, lawyer, spent the greater part of his life, from 1850 to his death in 1890, in California and adjacent states, engaged in mining enterprises. He was 78 years of age at the time of his death; always a man of sober, upright life; at one time he was a member of the Nevada Legislature. He married Susan E. Shutt who died at the age of 26, leaving four little girls. Immediately after her death Mr. Trask made provision for the children and went to California, about 1850. In 1866, Sigourney Trask entered Pittsburg Female College from which she graduated in 1870. With the purpose of becoming a medical missionary she attended first the Horn Medical College for Women, Cleveland, Ohio. After one year she went to New York for better facilities and matriculated at the Women's Medical College of the New York Infirmary (Dr. Emily Blackwell's College), where she graduated in 1874; went the same year to China under the auspices of the M. E. Church and had a hospital for women and children. Mr. Cowles attended Oberlin College, 1857-58 and 1862-64; A.M. hon. 1874, and when about eighteen years old left college and went to London to study the tea business, afterward spending a year in

New York, tea tasting, and in the latter part of the sixties went to Foochow, China, in the employ of Messrs. Heard & Co., tea merchants of Boston, who soon after failed. He then went to Peking, where he remained from 1869 to 1879. Having become well versed in the Chinese language, he served as secretary of the Spanish Legation, taught in the University of Peking, and for a time was in the Customs Service. In 1879, he was appointed interpreter and vice-consul at Foochow and served until 1888. He resumed the tea business in which he was not successful. With impaired health, he returned to the United States, Jan. 28, 1891. In July, 1891, he was appointed to a position in the U. S. Weather Bureau in Boston, which he resigned in Feb. 1892, and two months later sailed from New York for Cartagena, U. S. Colombia, S. A., in the employ of the Cartagena-Magdalena R. R. Co. There his health suffered very severely and he came near dying of malarial fever. With health partially restored, he started for home Jan. 1893. Desiring to inspect the abandoned Panama Canal, he went to Colon and thence to Panama; returning to Colon he took steamer to Greytown, crossed to the Pacific coast of Nicaragua, fell in with the International Railway Co., by whom he was engaged to do some clerical work. In April he finished his business and started to make his way to the Atlantic seaboard. On foot, by ox-cart, by sailing boat on Lake Nicaragua, he reached Grenada May 1st, 1893. On May 7, he wrote to his wife of his intention to get northward as quickly as possible, that the city was in a state of revolution, and he did not know by what route he should leave the city. He gave no address of place or person in Grenada, as a clue to his stopping place. He was to reach home early in June. When he did not come and his weekly letters ceased, his wife knew that something had taken him out of this life, and so suddenly that he had not been able to make any communication to his home friends. All the efforts made by his wife at the time, through the State Department, our minister, local consuls and otherwise, failed to shed any light on the manner of his mysterious disappearance and fate (see reference to him in the biographical sketch of John P. Cowles, Sr., 1884).

3939. REV. AUGUSTUS WOODRUFF^s COWLES, son of Alvah^r (1893), b. July 12, 1819, in Reading, Schuyler Co., N. Y.; d. March 15, 1913, at Elmira, N. Y.; m. June 15, 1847, at Brockport, N. Y., Frances Caroline Goold, d. 1902, dau. of Ralph W. and Mary (Stuart) Goold of Brockport, N. Y. The following biographical sketch is from Vol. 3, "The Public Service, State of New York, 1881-2":

"Augustus Woodruff Cowles was born in Reading, Schuyler county, New York, July 12, 1819. His father belonged to a well-known family which has furnished a number of able educators, including Rev. Henry Cowies [1833], D.D., the eminent Biblical commentator, who, for forty years contributed largely to the reputation and usefulness of Oberlin College. The distinguished Miss Z. P. Grant [1875] was also of the same stock. She was the friend and counselor of Mary Lyon, and these two are to be held in high honor as among the pioneers of thorough, solid Christian education for women.

His father, though a working mechanic, was a studious, thoughtful and abundant reader. He was a very close student of the Bible. Pastor once said that he never met a layman that had read the Scriptures with so much close thinking and nice discrimination of their meaning. The son soon indicated a taste for books, and passed through the usual studies of the village district school with credit. At the age of twelve he began the study of Latin, and in the following year commenced Greek. He was prepared for college at the close of his fifteenth year, under the instruction of that excellent teacher, Rev. Justus W. French, who at that time was Principal of the Geneva Lyceum. His father thought he was too young to enter college and there seemed to be no way open to meet the cost. The young student was placed as a clerk in the large dry-goods store of that eminent Christian merchant of Geneva, Hiram Hickok Seelye, a relative of Dr. Hickok and President Seelye of Amherst. After three years of clerkship the question of a profession came up for decision. After long and careful consideration the ministry was chosen, and studies of the Freshman Class, according to the course in Yale College, were taken up with Mr. French at the Geneva Lyceum. He entered the Sophomore Class of Union College, September, 1838, and graduated with honor with the class of 1841. After spending two years teaching in Schoharie county and in Schenectady, in 1843 he entered the New York Union Theological Seminary, from which he graduated in 1846. Before leaving the Seminary he arranged to supply a church in the village of Brockport, Monroe county, N. Y. In a few months he was ordained and installed as Pastor by the Presbytery of Rochester. In this pastoral charge he remained just ten years and resigned in order to accept the presidency of the newly-established college at Elmira. This was in 1856. He brought to his work special taste in scholarship and the arts. President Cowles has now reached the twenty-sixth year of his official life at the head of Elmira College. It is believed that only two Presidents of Colleges, now in service in this country, have exceeded that period; these are Presidents Anderson of Rochester University, and President Chapin of Beloit College. The administration of President Cowles has been the pioneer work of a novel enterprise, and without the éclat and resources of abundant means. For nearly ten years the institution struggled to deserve full recognition as a true college, while public sentiment slowly yielded its old prejudices against advanced education for women."

He received the degrees of A.B., 1841; A.M., 1844; D.D., 1858; LL.D., 1888. He remained president 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ years, resigned at the age of 70, was appointed for life president emeritus with salaried professorship and continued in charge of classes until 1907. Milwaukee-Downer College at Milwaukee, Wis., is the leading institution of learning for girls in the West. Its president, Miss Ellen Sabin, in a letter of recommendation, among other things said: "Miss Cowles has had the privileges of the best social connections, wide travel in Europe and the United States; college and University experience, and from all these advantages she has extracted the largest benefit. Endowed with vigorous health, marked executive ability, unusual energy, contagious cheerfulness, the best ideals of life and character, Miss Cowles' leaving Milwaukee-Downer is a cause of profound regret to the college, and her entering another department of the educational work is a cause for warm congratulation to the school that has secured her. The success of any work that Miss Cowles enters upon is assured, as her judgment would interdict her undertaking a doubtful enterprise and her trained ability as an organizer, united with her skill and power as a teacher, will build a successful institution of learning." Aug. 21, 1892, at Milwaukee, Wis. At the age of about four years Mr. Bacon removed with his parents to Geneva, N. Y.; he was early obliged to support himself, and at the age of ten was apprenticed to a farmer, for six years, but on account of some misunderstanding left before the end of the first year; for the next few years he attended the public schools, working during his leisure, and in vacations; at the age of thirteen he began his business life as an errand boy in a general store in the village; he was soon advanced to a clerkship, and in 1851 he entered the employ of the N. Y. & E. Ry. Co. (now N. Y., L. E. & W. Ry.), as a clerk in the freight office at Hornellsville, N. Y.;

he was rapidly advanced, and in 1854 became chief clerk in the general freight office of the company at New York City; the following year, Mr. Bacon accepted the position of manager of the freight office of the M. S. & N. I. Ry., at Chicago; in 1856, he removed to Milwaukee to become freight agent of the M. & M. Ry., the first railroad constructed west from Milwaukee, and which later formed part of the C. M. & St. P. railroad system; in 1857, he was given charge of the freight department of the entire road, with which he continued his connection for the subsequent nine years, filling the respective positions of general freight agent, general ticket agent, and auditor, organizing each department and turning it over in succession to his former assistants. The system of accounts and details of freight and ticket operations introduced by him were adopted by the officers of other western roads and constituted the basis of systems afterwards in use on an extended scale on the principal roads in operation in that section of the country. While filling the position of general ticket agent Mr. Bacon devised a case for holding coupon tickets, in which the tickets are suspended in successively projecting tiers, which met with such general favor that he patented the invention and it was afterward in general use on railroads throughout the country. In 1865, he decided to engage in business for himself and formed a copartnership with Lyman Everingham (3966a), for the transaction of a grain commission business under the firm name of Bacon & Everingham. In 1877, the firm became E. P. Bacon & Co. From small beginnings the house soon reached a leading position, and was regarded as one of the strongest in the trade in the Northwest. Mr. Bacon has been an influential member of the Chamber of Commerce of Milwaukee, and served as a director from 1883 to 1889, vice-president from 1889 to 1891, and was elected president in the latter year which office he filled for two successive terms. He also served as a delegate to the National Board of Trade for several terms, and was one of the vice-presidents of that body, 1884-89 (see Bacon Gen., 1915).

and many other conditions are of this type. It is known that a large number of cases of cancer of the breast, stomach, colon, and other organs are due to a chronic inflammation of the affected part. This inflammation may be the result of a bacterial infection, or it may be due to a non-bacterial cause, such as a chronic irritation. In either case, the inflammation leads to a thickening of the tissue, which may eventually result in the formation of a tumor. It is important to recognize that the inflammation is a local process, and it is not necessarily associated with a systemic disease. The treatment of such conditions is directed at the removal of the cause of the inflammation, and the use of antibiotics or other anti-inflammatory drugs may be indicated.

Chronic Inflammation

Chronic inflammation is a long-lasting inflammatory response that can lead to tissue damage and the formation of a tumor. It is often the result of a persistent irritant or infection. The inflammatory process involves the infiltration of white blood cells into the affected tissue, and the release of various chemical mediators. Over time, this process can lead to the formation of a mass of inflamed tissue, which may eventually become a tumor.

Eli W. Botsford was a commission merchant in Wellington, Medina Co., Ohio; served as sergeant-major, 2d Ohio Inf., Mexican War; major, 16th Ohio Vols., which he commanded in the Civil War at Shiloh, Tenn. Mrs. Cowles is a D. A. R. through Wheeler ancestry, and was formerly Regent, Boston Tea Party Chapter. (See D. A. R. Lineage Book, XI:38.)

Mr. Cowles is a self-taught and self-made man for which he deserves the highest praise. The following interesting biographical sketch was written by him in 1896:

"When our mother died in 1872 the family was broken up, and each set out to do for himself—myself the youngest at 13. I did any and everything from newsboy in St. Joseph, Mo., to Chief Train Despatcher of the A. T. & S. F. R. R. I went to Colorado in 1872 and became literally one of its first citizens; in 1875 went to New Mexico and Arizona, mining, clerking, telegraph operator, roustabout in silver mills, dish washer in a "palace hotel" in Silver City, N. Mex., engineer in silver mill, bookkeeper, messenger for express company, agent for a storage company, foreman of a fire company—all high posts of honor in those places and days—working in placers, owning a little store in the Black range, getting bankrupt by it. Back in Colorado, a state now, a telegrapher in Kansas nights at $40. per month, slowly advancing to train dispatcher, the chief operator and a manager for the W. U. T. Co. Then a postal clerk—finally drifting into the Dept. Education, none, not one day in any kind of a school—my books were an old copy of Byron, Shakespeare and some English classics picked up in mining camps, until I became a man grown. I did not study, I absorbed; have traveled quite extensively in U. S. (every state and territory) Mexico and Canada, besides doing Europe twice; am a good telegrapher, fair musician and I am afraid a poor writer, though some good magazines have accepted and published short stories written by me under different pen names (Frederick Bradford, etc.). I am a Knight Templar and altogether a ——— of a fellow from a purely personal and Cowles standpoint. At present I am special examiner of pensions, stationed in Boston. I am married and the father of twins (my only children born May 13, 1892), Edith and Frederick. I believe the foregoing is our family history so far as it is known to me. My own autobiography perhaps may just as well have been kept to myself but I thought perhaps it might interest you as a sample of just what the stock will do under discouraging conditions. I do not speak of it in an egotistical way because I think I am anything particular or that I have done anything worth the telling, but simply to illustrate the fact that you can take one of the Cowles, have him born in a section of the country (southeastern Iowa on the Missouri River 'bottoms') among—well you ought to know just what that section was in the fifties, the borderland of Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska and Hades—turn him loose at 12 or 13 with bootblacks, street arabs and the like, without one day's schooling; then transfer him to the wildest west of the Seventies—and it was somewhat wild—let him train among the cream and scum of mining camps, cattle ranches, etc.; give him every chance to become a drunken loafer, liar and thief—for those were his associates—and finally you find him in the effete east, an average man in decent society and in no wise different from the other people you meet every day in social and official circles. He did not choose the other road simply because it was not in his blood—that is all. I hope I have not bored you with all this. I simply sat down to give you statistics but I see the ego got the best of me, but believe me it is only intended in my weak and feeble way to shed glory! on the name of Cowles, for after all there is no God but Allah and the Cowles are his chosen and any one of the name who does not earnestly, honestly and conscientiously think so away down deep in his heart whether he writes it down or not is not worthy of the name any way it may be pronounced."

He resigned his position in the Pension Office in 1899, and acquired two newspapers in Joplin, Mo., and consolidated them under the name of the Joplin News-Herald (Daily); was a delegate to the National Convention that nominated McKinley and Roosevelt and re-entered the government service as clerk in the Pension Office, where he was still employed as special examiner in 1916, at Columbus, Ohio.

The following biographical sketch is from the pen of Rev. P. W. Lyman of Fall River, Mass.:

"The death of Samuel D. Cowles of Belchertown yesterday removes a man who was for many years a leading citizen of the place. He was the junior member of the firm of T. and S. D. Cowles, carriage-makers, which was established in 1848, and is still in business with that name though the partnership was dissolved in 1879, the younger brother retiring. Anxieties incident to business and public cares brought on disease to which he has at last fallen a victim, though he has been about the streets and to church till within a month. He was in the Legislature of 1860, and held a variety of other public trusts. When the church was remodeled in 1872, he was chairman of the building committee. He was once superintendent of the Sunday school, and for nearly 20 years he had a class of young men in the school. In politics, his sympathies were usually with the independent reform element of his party, for whose candidates he sometimes refused to vote. He united with the Congregational Church, April 5, 1863, in the pastorate of Rev. H. B. Blake, the late Elihu Root uniting at the same time. He was a man of firm convictions and of decided religious principles. * * * The funeral will take place at his late residence to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock." He was a deacon in the church.

4361. MAJOR SENECA R.^s COWLES, son of Samuel B.⁷ (2181), b. Oct. 8, 1828, in Belchertown, Mass.; d. Dec. 12, 1901, at Sioux City, Neb.; funeral services in Methodist Church; interment in Dakota City Cemetery; m. May 28, 1849, at Palermo, N. Y., Lidy Elvira Johnson, who d. about June, 1902. This was a happy wedded life and an unusually long one. During his minority Major Cowles' father lived at Belchertown, Mass., and Palermo, Vermillion and Oswego, N. Y. At the age of 13 he was sent to an old-fashioned private school at Vermillion and continued until 1843, and then entered the public school at Oswego and continued until he was 18 years old. He then learned the cooper's trade but did not follow it long as it did not suit him. He next mastered the joiner's trade and worked at it for a number of years quite successfully. In the spring of 1848, the year after the great fire in Detroit, he went to Detroit and assisted in rebuilding the town. From there he went to Buffalo and began work building a steamboat. From there he returned home to Oswego on learning of his mother's death, and engaged as a ship joiner. From 1850 until the beginning of the Civil War he was engaged in steamboating on the Oneida river and operating a saw mill. He was mustered in Sept. 11, 1862, at Sacket Harbor, N. Y., as captain, Co. D (originally Co. B, 4th Battalion Artillery), 10th Art. N. Y. S. V. (Black River Regt.); captain, Nov. 29, 1862, with rank from Sept. 11, 1862; commissioned major of same regiment, May 18, 1864, with rank from April 5, 1864; mustered out with regiment at Petersburg, Va., June 23, 1865; was first provost-marshal of Petersburg, Va., after its capture in 1865. After the war Major Cowles located at Waverly, Iowa, where he owned a half interest in a saw mill. In 1867, he purchased a farm near Waverly, and engaged in farming for three years when a severe attack of sickness caused him to give it up. In 1870, he removed to Covington, now a part of Sioux City, where he resided until his death. He at first intended to go into the grocery business but rented his building and went to Cheyenne Indian reservation as engineer of the port. Later he went to Bismarck where he again ran a sawmill. In 1875, he went to Potsburg(?), Pa., and from there worked the steamer Carroll through to Benton, Mont., a distance of 4,000 miles. From that time on all of his time was devoted to steamboating on the Missouri river until his retirement about 1890. For a number of years he was captain of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha road's transfer ferry boat at Sioux City. He was also employed for a time on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. He served as a member of the Dakota County Board of Supervisors and as chairman of the Board of Trustees of Sioux City. The following extract from an obituary notice is copied from a local newspaper:

"In the death of Major Cowles the community loses one of its most respected and useful members and words of sorrow are freely expressed on every hand. Few better men than Major Cowles ever lived. He was by nature kind, generous and progressive. His long life of usefulness is at an end, but his memory still lives in the many kind deeds, the countless and unostentatious acts of charity and the kind, encouraging words so often spoken to those who deserved them."

4636. ALEXINA BLANCHARD⁸ COWLES (called Xina), dau. of Francis Asbury⁷ (2405), b. Jan. 6, 1856, in Greenoak, Mich.; m. March 28, 1877, at Arkansas City, Kans., William Neale Wright, b. April 23, 1848, at Springfield, Ohio; d. Jan. 25, 1909, at Arkansas City, son of William Wright, gentleman, b. near Dublin, Ireland, Feb. 10, 1819; d. March 1, 1892, at Arkansas City, and Sarah Mariah Neale, b. 1815, at Mountrath, Ireland; d. March 17, 1888, at Arkansas City. William Wright and his wife were married 1841, at Mountrath, and came to America on their wedding journey, which took eight weeks on account of stormy weather. He was captain in the Ohio National Guard; led his company in the repulse of Morgan's raid; had three sons in the Union army, one a lieutenant, then captain, U. S. A.; one lost a hand. Too old to enlist he supported a man's family to enlist in his place; had charge of forwarding Union supplies for Springfield, Ohio. No Union man's family suffered if he knew of their necessities. He was agent at the Little Miami depot, Springfield, Ohio, for 20 years, using the same desk; was a Trinity (Ireland) man; schoolmate of John Tyndall; a constant correspondent and received the last letter written by the noted scientist. William Wright was son of Joshua Wright, gentleman, and his wife, Catherine Kavanaugh, spinster, of Dublin, Ireland. The Wrights were of English descent. Sarah Mariah Neale was dau. of Richard Neale a wealthy commoner and his wife, Margaret Anna Watson, both of Mountrath, Ireland. Margaret A. Watson's sister, a famous Irish beauty, married a descendant of Walpole. William Neale Wright was a member of Co. E, 152d Regt. Ohio N. G., 100-day men, May 7 to Sept. 2, 1864; youngest in regiment and was called the Adjutant; was with Hunter in his raid into Virginia; was one of the very few who brought the prisoners allotted to his care back to the Union lines. He assisted as rodman in first survey of U. P. Ry., across Kansas, from Westport, Mo., to west line of state, Kansas and back; had several skirmishes with Indians and narrow escapes. When the Osage reservation was opened for settlement, he was with the men who anticipated the opening and was one of the first nine men who preempted claims near Arkansas City, Kans., 1869; was with the Kansas Militia, 1873-4, during Indian trouble along south line of state. He was a farmer and horse raiser.

Alexina Blanchard Cowles was noted locally, at Emporia and later at Arkansas City, Kans., for her ability to ride the Indian ponies used by the settlers for traveling. She could ride side-wise, bareback, without even a bridle; was not afraid to break ponies for riding; rode anything; could mount from the ground without assistance; rode at a State fair at Emporia when but nine years old and was declared the best rider but ineligible as the contest was for ladies. In 1871-2, she won saddle and bridle, and a silver pitcher in contests in Cowley Co., that were state wide; did not hesitate to swim ponies across swollen streams. In 1916, she resided in Topeka, Kans., and contributed the foregoing autobiographical sketch. Member of the D. A. R. (see D. A. R. Lineage Book, Vol. LVII).

- 6302g. Charles Cowles Tucker, b. March 3, 1873, Washington, D. C., began his career as a page in the Capitol until he reached the age for studying law. He was admitted to the bar at the age of twenty-six when he started practicing alone. His first partnership was formed with Harry W. Davis. Soon after the death of Mr. Davis, J. Miller Kenyon (one of the leading lawyers of Washington to-day) became his partner and in 1912, H. B. F. MacFarland, one of the District Commissioners, joined the firm of Tucker, Kenyon and MacFarland. From 1900 until the time of his death he was Professor of Law in the National Law School of Washington, teaching international and common law. Colonel Tucker was Reporter for the Court of Appeals from 1898 until 1917 when he was forced to resign this position in order to enter the services of the United States Army.

Upon honorable discharge from the Army in 1919, he became legal advisor and one of the directors of several Washington banks, and was general counsel for some nationally known cases. It was at the height of his brilliant career that he so tragically met his death, along with his beautiful wife, in the Knickerbocker Theater disaster in Washington, January 22, 1922. Colonel Tucker was a member of the old cave-dweller colony of Washington which dates back to the days when aristocratic Washington lived near and around the Capitol. He and his popular and charming wife maintained a summer home on Nantucket Island, Mass., and it was here particularly that their great Southern hospitality was the joy and pleasure of their New England friends.

This extract from a testimonial sent to his daughters by the Lawyers Club gives a fair example of his reputation in Washington:

"In the sad and tragic death of Colonel Charles Cowles Tucker the Lawyers Club has suffered the loss of one of its most distinguished and beloved members.

Colonel Tucker was essentially a gentleman and he was a lawyer endowed with learning and wisdom and a profound knowledge of the principles of the profession which he adorned. He ever maintained the high standing which marks the honorable and accomplished lawyer and his professional life is an example worthy to be followed by those whom he left behind him at the bar.

He has left a monument attesting his legal ability in forty-six volumes of the Reports of the Court of Appeals, covering a period of twenty-five years.

During the World War he was appointed a major in the Judge Advocate General's Department, U. S. Army, and by reason of the splendid service rendered, he merited and received promotion to the grade of lieutenant-colonel, and subsequently to that of colonel, which latter rank was held at the time of his honorable discharge for which he applied in order to resume the practice of law.

The commendation of his superior officers, which form a part of the official record of his military service, are of the highest, and constitute a testimonial of which any officer and lawyer would be justly proud.

To those with whom he was associated in business he was ever courteous and considerate, and such association engendered a deep and real affection for him as a man and a friend.

The loss of his companionship to his associates and to his friends, which include the members of the Lawyers Club, can never be measured; it can only be lamented.

A true friend, an accomplished and honorable lawyer, a devoted husband and father, Colonel Tucker was a man in the fullest sense of the word." (Biographical sketch contributed by his daughter, Mrs. Andrews.)

William and Mildred (Dula) Horton. Gen. William Horton represented Wilkes Co., N. C., in the General Assembly fifteen consecutive terms. His father was Col. C., who at one time represented Burke Co. in the General Assembly, and was the second graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Her mother was Margaret, dau. of General Charles McDowell of Quaker Meadows, Burke Co., N. C., who took a prominent part in the Revolutionary war, and of his wife, Grace, or Grizelle (Greenlee) Bowman, widow of Capt. John Bowman, who was killed at Ramseur's Mills, N. C., June 20, 1780. He was buried with Masonic orders and the honors of war on account of his Revolutionary services (Colonial Records of N. C.). Joseph Dickson settled first in Rowan Co., then removed to Lincoln Co., and then to Tryon Co., N. C., and in 1806, removed to Tennessee with his family, except his son William G. Dickson. (See Greenlee Gen., 1908, and Historic Families of Kentucky, 1888, by Green.)

During the latter part of the Civil War, Arthur D. Cowles entered the Hillsboro Military Academy, at Hillsboro, N. C., and, upon the approach of General Sherman's army in 1865, was called into the Confederate service with the corps of cadets. After the surrender of General Johnston's army at Greensboro, N. C., he returned to the home of his parents at Wilkesboro, N. C. He assisted in his father's store and business until about 1869 when he engaged in the mercantile business at Gap Creek, Ashe Co., N. C., under the firm name of A. D. Cowles & Co., his father being his only partner. Their business prospered greatly and he subsequently conducted it in his own name. Like his father he dealt in medicinal herbs and general merchandise, his trade covered a wide territory and he accumulated in a few years, comparatively, a large fortune, most of which he subsequently lost with his health.

Upon the death of her parents in 1896, his wife inherited their homestead and lands at Clover Hill and she moved there with her family at about that date. She managed her large property holdings with shrewdness and discretion and left an estate valued at perhaps $50,000 to her children (see Horton Gen., 1876, and Wheeler's Hist. of North Carolina).

Mrs. Cowles has a distinguished ancestry. Among her ancestors are four governors of Connecticut: John Haynes, Thomas Welles, Gurdon Saltonstall and John Treadwell, and she is of royal descent from the Kings of England and France through Mabel Harlakenden, wife of John Haynes, and from the Kings of England and Scotland through Muriel Gurdon, wife of Richard Saltonstall (see Americans of Royal Descent and the Saltonstall Gen., 1897).

At the age of ten years Charles E. Hitchcock was sent to West Brookfield, Mass., to learn the printer's trade, and later was on the staff of the New York Tribune. At the request of the Hawaiian Government the Tribune sent him to Honolulu in 1847 to edit "The Polynesian," a weekly newspaper, the first ever published in the Hawaiian Islands, though he was not its first editor. He went to San Francisco, Calif., in 1850, where he became a member of the firm of Goodwin & Co., dealers in general merchandise; was married, Sept. 27, 1854, at Albany, N. Y., to Eliza Poole Hamilton; returned to San Francisco, Calif., in 1859, and entered the firm of Lord & Co., in the wholesale paper business; was also interested in the firm of Gray & Co., at Prescott, La Paz and Yuma, Ariz., and in the Big Bug mining district, near Prescott, Ariz., where he installed the first 10-stamp quartz-mill in 1864. He was Hawaiian consul to the United States at San Francisco, Calif., in the sixties, during the reign of Queen Emma, by whom he was knighted with the Order of Kamahamaha I. He removed with his family to New York City in 1869, and thence to Big Bug, Ariz., in 1873. From the end of the railroad, then at Pueblo, Colo., they made the journey by chartered transportation, via Raton Pass, Santa Fe, Albuquerque and Fort Wingate, N. Mex., and Sunset Crossing on the little Colorado River, to the Mogollon Mesa in Arizona, where several feet of snow was encountered and the teams were unable to proceed. The commanding officer at Fort Wingate had furnished a military escort as protection against the Indians and the sergeant in command of it was sent forward with a guide, on foot, to the army post at Camp Verde, Ariz., for supplies and pack transportation to enable them to proceed on their journey, but before the pack train was able to break a trail through the deep snow to their camp they had consumed all of their provisions, except flour, and that was all they had for Christmas dinner, 1873. They broke camp on the 27th and arrived at Camp Verde on the 28th Dec., where they were cordially welcomed and entertained by the officers and ladies of the garrison until thoroughly rested and their new home had been made ready for their reception, at Big Bug. The mines had lain idle since the miners had been driven away by hostile Indians some years before. Mr. Hitchcock reopened and worked them until 1878 when he sold out and removed with his family to Citronelle, Ala.

Eliza Poole Hamilton, b. April 22, 1828, in Oneida Co., N. Y.; d. Nov. 29, 1879, at Citronelle, Ala.; buried in Rural Cemetery, Albany, N. Y., was a daughter of Col. David and Sophia (Poole) Hamilton, granddaughter of John Hudson and Esther (Root) Poole of Oriskany, N. Y., and great-granddaughter of John(?) and ——— (Hudson) Poole of Dighton, Mass. (probably Benjamin and Ruth (Hudson) Poole).

Tradition says that Esther Root's father, given name forgotten, but perhaps Jesse, and John(?) Poole were captains in the War of the Revolution. Esther Root was b. Sept. 26, 1776, in Coventry, Conn.; d. Feb. 12, 1832. John Hudson Poole was b. Sept. 17, 1766; d. Feb. 7, 1842 (tombstone, Oriskany, N. Y.). The Poole lineage may be seen at the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Library, Boston, Mass.

Col. David Hamilton, b. March 31, 1804, in Cherry Valley, N. Y., of Scotch and French(?) parents, was a prominent and wealthy citizen of Troy road, Albany, N. Y. He was a civil engineer of note and had charge of constructing the Erie Canal. Later he was associated with Erastus Corning in building and operating the New York Central Railroad. He was a Democrat in politics, and a colonel on the governor's staff. While traveling abroad he contracted a fever at Rome in 1859 and died at Naples, Italy, April 6, 1861. He was buried in the Rural Cemetery at Albany, N. Y., where an imposing monument marks the resting place of himself and other members of his family. His wife, Sophia Poole, was b. March 20, 1809, and d. Jan. 27, 1877.]

1. The first of these is the fact that the area of the world's population is increasing at a rapid rate. This is due to a number of factors, including improved medical care, increased food production, and a decline in the death rate.
2. The second factor is the increasing urbanization of the world's population. More and more people are moving from rural areas to cities and towns, which is leading to a concentration of population in certain areas.
3. The third factor is the increasing migration of people from one part of the world to another. This is particularly true of the movement of people from Europe and North America to other parts of the world.
4. The fourth factor is the increasing importance of the world's oceans. As more and more people move to coastal areas, the oceans become increasingly important for trade and transportation.
5. The fifth factor is the increasing importance of the world's rivers. As more and more people move to river valleys, the rivers become increasingly important for agriculture and transportation.
6. The sixth factor is the increasing importance of the world's mountains. As more and more people move to mountainous areas, the mountains become increasingly important for recreation and tourism.
7. The seventh factor is the increasing importance of the world's forests. As more and more people move to forested areas, the forests become increasingly important for timber and paper production.
8. The eighth factor is the increasing importance of the world's deserts. As more and more people move to desert areas, the deserts become increasingly important for agriculture and tourism.
9. The ninth factor is the increasing importance of the world's tundra. As more and more people move to tundra areas, the tundra becomes increasingly important for reindeer herding and tourism.
10. The tenth factor is the increasing importance of the world's icebergs. As more and more people move to icy areas, the icebergs become increasingly important for transportation and recreation.

There is a great deal of interest in the history of the University of Chicago, and it is a pleasure to be able to present a brief account of its development. The University was founded in 1837, and since that time it has grown from a small college into one of the largest and most influential universities in the world. Its growth has been the result of a combination of factors, including the leadership of its presidents, the support of its alumni, and the contributions of its faculty and students. The University has been a center of learning and research for over a century, and it continues to play a vital role in the advancement of knowledge and the education of the young.

In 1893, he was one of the organizers of the Independent Whip Company of Westfield and he became manager of the business. The concern prospered greatly under his management and took rank among the leading manufactories of the town. Westfield is the center of the whip industry in New England. THE COWLES FAMILY OF VIRGINIA

BY

COL. CALVIN D. COWLES, HARTFORD, CONN.,

AND

EUGENE COWLES, SHELBYVILLE, KY.,

HISTORIANS OF THE COWLES FAMILY ASSOCIATION.

PREFACE.

Owing to the loss or destruction of public records, the lack of early family records, and the unreliability of tradition, the history of the Cowles family of Virginia is unavoidably incomplete, more or less fragmentary, and hard to determine.

The family appear to have resided almost exclusively in Charles City and James City Counties until after the Revolutionary War.

In 1720 the Chickahominy River was made the boundary between Charles City and James City Counties. Prior to that date James City County extended some distance to the west and south of that river (see Appendix X).

The James City County books were destroyed during the Civil War and other old papers were burned in 1911.

Three of the early deed books of Charles City County have been destroyed, but otherwise the records appear to be intact. Copies of all the Cowles items found by the clerk and Dr. Lyon G. Tyler have been obtained and appear in the appendices.

During the past thirty years the compiler has examined every available publication on Virginia history, biography, and genealogy, copying the Cowles items found, and has also secured numerous official manuscript records. Those of general interest, and certain family traditions appear herein as appendices, and are numbered serially for convenience of reference.

Mr. Eugene Cowles of Shelbyville, Ky., historian of the Virginia branch of the family, worked faithfully for some years in gathering family records, from which he printed a family chart in 1903, afterwards turning the records over to the Cowles Family Association and they are now in the possession of the compiler.

He has also contributed generously toward the expense incurred for copies of official manuscript records. To him the credit for the history of this branch of the family is mainly due.

Notwithstanding tradition to the contrary, the compiler believes that Richard Cowles was the progenitor of the entire Cowles family of Virginia. He bought 125 acres of land at the mouth of Kennige's Creek, Charles City Co., Va., as per bill of sale dated June 3, 1614. The place of his death is not known but the date thereof was probably 1666, at which time Edmund Cowles, a supposed son, inherited said land, and in order to perfect his title, patented it Sept. 29, 1666 (Appendix VI).

Edmund Cowles and Phillip Charles patented another piece of land containing 242 acres and one rood, being a neck lying in Chickahominy River in James City Co., Va. (Appendix V). At that time James City County extended some distance west of the river and it is believed that said land was on the west side for the reason that in 1686, Gilbert Chancy obtained a patent for 50 acres of land on the west side in which Mr. Cowles' line was mentioned and also Peashill Creek (Appendix IX), the latter being a boundary of William (Marston) Cowles' land in 1788-1792. (Appendix XXV, and Wm. Marston Cowles' record.) The latter tract of land was on the Cowles Ferry-Charles City C. H. Road between Holdcroft and Binns Hall. Thomas Cowles, father of Wm. M. Cowles, owned Cowles Ferry and three plantations nearby in 1769. He was keeper of the ferry in 1739 and perhaps earlier. It was then called Goodall's and afterwards Cowles' and Edloe's Ferry. It was situated on the right bank of Chickahominy River opposite the mouth of Diascund Creek. It is believed that Edmund Cowles settled in that vicinity in 1666 or earlier and that Mr. Cowles' line mentioned in the Chancy Patent of 1686 was his. From the fact that Edmund inherited the land at Kennige's Creek by virtue of a bill of sale to Richard Cowles, it would appear that he probably was the sole heir of the latter as no other heirs were mentioned.

Edmund Cowles probably had Thomas Cowles and other children, some of whom may have founded families.

Thomas Cowles, supposed son of Edmund Cowles, was a burgess, sheriff, and justice of the peace for James City Co., Va., 1698-1712. He probably lived at the old Edmund Cowles homestead, believed to have been on the west side of Chickahominy

River which then was in James City County. He had a son, Thomas Cowles, Jr., and perhaps other children who may have founded families. (Appendices X, XII, XIII.)

Thomas Cowles, Jr., son of Thomas, was messenger (sergeant-at-arms) to the House of Burgesses, 1710-1711. If he had any children we have no record of them. (Appendices X and XI.)

There are now three branches of the Cowles family of Virginia but with our present information they cannot be traced to a common ancestor, nor can either of them be traced to Thomas, Edmund, or Richard Cowles aforesaid. However it is significant of a common origin that in early times they all lived on, or near, Chickahominy River in Charles City and James City Counties. Their histories are necessarily treated separately in the following pages.

For over three hundred years the Cowles family has been numbered among the influential landed gentry of Virginia, a distinction in which all its members may take a just pride.

RICHARD COWLES.

Richard Cowles, probably the progenitor of the Cowles Family of Virginia, enjoys the distinction of being the first immigrant of the name Cowles found in America. He bought of John Hardway, as per bill of sale dated June 3, 1614, one hundred and twenty-five acres of land, being on the north side of James River, Westover Parish, Charles City Co., Va. He probably lived and died on this land, for in 1666, when it was patented by Edmund Cowles, probably his son, the "Lot House" was still standing. (Appendix VI.) It is possible that Richard Cowles was one of the original settlers of Jamestown in 1607. His ancestry has not been traced, and the date and place of his birth are unknown, but the fact that the Cowles family were more numerous in Gloucestershire than elsewhere in England at that date, and that the name Richard Cowles appears in the public records of wills, etc., of that county ten times between 1588 and 1631, and only four times elsewhere in England from 1565 to 1636, makes it probable that he was a native of Gloucestershire.

It is a fact that the Church of England is the only one of the three great churches of the world which has not been the subject of a schism since the Reformation.

SARAH COWLES.

Among the early Virginia immigrants Sarah Cowles was brought over by John Watson and John Bognall, Westmoreland County in 1654, but whether that county was her destination is not known.

Possibly she was the wife of Richard or Edmund Cowles and landed at some point on James River (Appendix IV).

However among the slave owners of Westmoreland Co., Va., in 1782, appear the names of James Cowles, 2 slaves, and Thomas Cowles, 7 slaves (Appendix XII).

The records of Westmoreland County were published in 1913 but do not contain the name Cowles (see Virginia County Records, Vol. 1, New Series, by Crozier).

Possibly the slave owners, named above, were James Cowles (7), and his father Thomas Cowles (2), or brother Thomas Cowles (5) of James City County.

One Thomas Cowles of James City County owned 7 slaves in 1782, the same number as Thomas Cowles of Westmoreland County, a significant coincidence at least (see Appendix XXXV).

EDMUND COWLES.

Edmund Cowles, probably a son of Richard Cowles mentioned before, patented Sept. 29, 1666, the identical 125-acre tract of land for which the latter had a bill of sale dated June 3, 1614.

This patent doubtless was necessary to perfect the title to the land (Appendix VI).

Edmund Cowles and Phillip Charles patented Aug. 6, 1666, two hundred acres and one rood of marsh land, being a neck lying in Chickahominy River, James City Co., Va. (Appendix V).

As previously stated, James City Co. at that date extended to the west and south of Chickahominy River and it is believed that this land was on the west side, possibly at Big Marsh Point shown on the Toano Quadrangle of the U. S. Geological Survey. Gilbert Chancy patented Oct. 27, 1686, fifty acres of land on the west side of Chickahominy River in James City Co., Va. "Beginning att a hickory in Mr. Cowles' line of markt trees," etc. One of the boundaries was Peashill Creek (Appendix IX). This creek was doubtless the same as Pea Hill Run or Pea Hill Creek, one of the boundaries of the 403-acre tract of land lying in Westover Parish, Charles City Co., Va. (Westover Parish at that date included the entire county), patented by William [Marston] Cowles, Aug. 17, 1788, and deeded by him May 19, 1792, to William Graves (Appendix XXV and W. M. Cowles' record).

This latter tract of land was commonly called and known by the name of Cowles Ridge, the northwest corner of which was crossed by the road leading from Charles City C. H. to Cowles Ferry over Chickahominy River just below the mouth of Diascund Creek. In 1705, this ferry ran from John Goddall's to Williams' Neck, or Drummond's Neck. It was called Goodall's Ferry in 1739 or earlier, and as late as 1771 or later, although upon the petition of Thomas Cowles, the keeper, its name was altered by Act of the General Assembly in 1742, from Goodall's to Williams' or Hamner's Point. An Act passed Oct. 1748 fixed the rates of tolls to be charged from Cowles' to Williams' and from Cowles' to Hamner's Point. In 1792, an Act was passed regulating the rates of ferries, one of which was from Coles' to Williams'. In Dec. 1792, an Act was passed regulating the rates of toll from Edloe's land in Charles City Co., to his land in James City County, and from Edloe's land in Charles City County to Armistead's Point, and a similar act was passed in 1819, after which no further mention of this ferry is found in the Statutes of Virginia. It was called Edloe's Ferry in an Act passed Jan. 14, 1801.

However it appears on James Madison's map compiled about 1808 as Coles Ferry and on war maps, 1861-65, Cole's Ferry (disused). It was kept by Thomas Cowles as early as 1739, who bequeathed by will in 1769, to his son Thomas Cowles, the land and plantation on which he then lived in Charles City County, together with the ferry and all the lands thereto adjoining, also the land and plantation opposite thereto in James City County. To his son, William Marston Cowles, he gave his tract of land and plantation, known by the name of the Ridge and all lands adjoining thereto. All of these plantations and the homestead were situated in the vicinity of Holdcroft P. O., Charles City County, Va., except the one on the opposite side of the Chickahominy River in James City Co. A part of the homestead plantation remained in the possession of the Cowles family until about 1816 and there is good reason to believe that Edmund Cowles settled on it in 1666 or earlier, and that it was handed down from father to son for 150 years. During the early part of that period the Cowles family appear to have lived on both sides of the Chickahominy River within a few miles of the mouth of Diascund Creek, indicating a common origin and strengthening the belief that Richard Cowles was the progenitor of the family through, perhaps his only son, Edmund Cowles. It is not known how many children either of them had but it is probable that Edmund Cowles had more than one son, and that naturally at that early date all settled near the old homestead for mutual protection and society.

Edmund Cowles obtained in the General Court of Virginia, Oct. 20, 1673, a judgment for certain articles imported from the West Indies, and in 1677, he and 37 other inhabitants of James City County signed a paper containing the grievances of the county in Bacon's Rebellion of 1676. (Appendices V to IX.)

THOMAS COWLES.

Thomas Cowles, burgess, justice of the peace, and sheriff of James City Co., Va., at various times between 1698 and 1712, was probably a son of Edmund Cowles, mentioned before. He was associated with the leading men of the colony and must have been a man of influence and high standing. His wife died in 1710. They probably lived at the old homestead of Edmund Cowles on the west side of Chickahominy River, which at that time was in James City County. They had a son, Thomas Cowles, Jr., and perhaps other children. (Appendices X, XII, XIII, XXXV.)

THOMAS COWLES, JR.

Thomas Cowles, Jr., son of Thomas Cowles mentioned above, was messenger (sergeant-at-arms) to the House of Burgesses of Virginia, in 1710-11, and perhaps justice of the peace in 1712. There is no record of children, if any. (Appendices X, XI, XIII.)

THOMAS COWLES OF JAMES CITY COUNTY.

I. THOMAS¹ COWLES, according to tradition, came from England about 1700, with his wife, Obedience, to Lobbs' Landing, James City County, Va., and bought Lobbs' Landing and the old homestead, a farm called Cowlesville, which remains in the Cowles family to as late as 1920. Cowlesville is situated about 2½ miles east of the mouth of Diascund Creek. The Lobbs farm, also owned by the Cowles family, is bounded on the north by Cowlesville and on the south by Chickahominy River (Appendix III).

Tradition is untrustworthy and, for various reasons stated in the Introduction, the compiler is of the opinion that Thomas Cowles was a native of Virginia and a descendant of Richard Cowles of Kennige's Creek, Charles City County (Appendix VI).

The following description of the old homestead was written by one of the family in 1901:

"I was born and raised at the old Cowles farm in James City County, Va. No one knows when this house was built as it is quite a curiosity to see the massive hewn timbers in the basement. Of course it has been kept up until the old place has partially lost its old colonial style. We still own this place, and there is the old burying-ground with so many ancestors, but strange to say, though they all seemed persons of means, there is not a stone to mark the graves."

It is said that Thomas and Obedience Cowles had eleven sons and daughters, but the name of only one child, John, is given; another son went to near Baltimore and another to North Carolina, it is said.

Eleven children, but the names of ten are unknown.

JOHN COWLES OF JAMES CITY COUNTY, VA.

1. JOHN¹ COWLES, according to tradition, came directly from England to Virginia, and settled near Williamsburg, James City County (see Appendix I), but that he was the immigrant ancestor admits of grave doubt. It is not uncommon for families when they reach the name of the last known ancestor to conclude that he was the original immigrant, whereas he may have been born in the immediate neighborhood. The present case may be no exception to the general rule and it would be well to bear in mind that all the branches of the Cowles family of Virginia may be descended from Richard Cowles who was in Virginia in 1614 and perhaps earlier.

Thomas is the only child of John Cowles mentioned in the tradition but from the evidence contained in the will of John Cooper (Appendix XXVII), he probably had the other children listed below. The name of his wife is unknown.

If the inference is correct that he named one of his sons Edmund, of which there can be but little doubt, the presumption is strong that he was a descendant of Edmund Cowles who was in Charles City County and James City County, Va., in 1666, and perhaps earlier, and who patented land which had been bought by Richard Cowles in 1614, perhaps his father. (Appendices V, VI, VII, VIII.)

Children (Appendix XXVII).

- 3. Susanna, m. John Cooper of Williamsburg, Va.
- +4. Edmund(?).
- 4a. Son, m. ———. Children: i. John Cowles; ii. perhaps Elizabeth(?), m. Taylor. John and Elizabeth were nephew and niece of Susanna (Cowles) Cooper (3).

2. THOMAS² COWLES, son of John¹ (1). Perhaps he was the Thomas Cowles elected as a member of a Committee of Safety by the freeholders of James City Co., Va., Nov. 25, 1774. He was mentioned in John Cooper's will Dec. 15, 1791. He was born and raised in James City County and probably resided on or near Chickahominy River. (Appendices I, XIX, XXVII, XXXI, XXXV.)

Children.

- +5. Thomas.
- +6. Henry.
- +7. James.
- +8. Samuel, b. Dec. 31, 1759.
- 9. Sarah.
- 10. Elizabeth. She accompanied her brother Henry Cowles to Edmonson Co., Ky., about 1804, and gave to John Cowles (31) two slaves, Peter and Ned. Many other slaves were freed when they reached the age of 21. She died unmarried and was buried in the family burying ground on her brother Henry's farm, some two miles from Pine Grove Church, and five miles from Chalybeate Springs, Edmonson Co., Ky.

4. EDMUND² COWLES, SR., supposed son of John¹ (1) of James City County, Va., is doubtless the Edmund Cowles who executed a bond in Middlesex County, Va., Dec. 24, 1773, with James Wortham as security, for his marriage to Ann⁴ Wortham (George³, George², John¹), b. Dec. 29, 1745 (Appendix XVII).

He was called Edmund Cowles, Senior, in a survey made by his order in 1804 (Appendix XXXI) and, as a witness to a will, signed his name Edmund Cowles, Sr., in 1804 (Appendix XXX).

Until the discovery of the information contained in Appendices XVII, XXVI, XXVII, XXX, XXXI and XXXV, the existence of only one Edmund Cowles living in 1800 in Virginia was known and that was Edmund Cowles, No. 11, doubtless a son of Edmund Cowles, Sr. It is equally certain that he had the other children named below as Henry Brown Cowles named two of his children Ann Worthem and Edmond, doubtless for his parents (Appendix XXXVI).

Perhaps the reason that John Cooper did not mention the children of Edmund Cowles, Sr., among his wife's nephews and nieces in his will in 1791 was because they were then minors and he had provided for their father. Unfortunately the will or office copy was destroyed by fire in 1911 and we have only a brief abstract of it (Appendix XXVII).

Children: i. Ann Worthem; ii. Lucy Jane; iii. Martha; iv. William Henry; v. Edmond Mitcham, was m. twice; one dau. by first wife died; four sons by second wife were living in 1908—two in California, one in Jonesboro, Ark., and one in Dyersburg, Tenn.; vi. Isaac Sampson, b. 1832; living in 1908; had five sons and three daus.; all died before 1908, except James Henry and Beverly. (Appendix XXXVI.)

IIb. Lucy, m. Goodall; removed from Williamsburg, Va., or near there, to Lyon Co., Ky. (Appendix XXXVI.)

IIc. Jane, m. Holloway; removed from Williamsburg, Va., or near there, to Lyon Co., Ky. (Appendix XXXVI.)

5. THOMAS³ COWLES, son of Thomas² (2), by his last will and testament bearing date April 23, 1804, and recorded in the County Court of James City, Sept. 10, 1804, "loaned" to his wife Ann Cowles, his land and plantation in James City County so long as she remained his widow, and upon her intermarriage or death, he devised the said land and plantation to be sold and the proceeds thereof to be equally divided amongst his four children, namely, Thomas E. Cowles, Sarah Taylor, the wife of Henley Taylor, Frances Cowles, and Eliza G. Cowles.

On April 1, 1806, Edmund Cowles, surviving executor of Thomas Cowles, Sr., of the county of James City, sold to Henley Taylor for £132-3-6 a tract of land lying in James City Co., a part of the land of which Thomas Cowles, Sr., died possessed, and which he by his will directed to be sold, which land was more particularly known by the name of Night's Field, and which by a late survey contained 68 acres and was bounded on the west by the road leading from Richmond to Williamsburg, on the northeast by the lands of Archer Hankin, and on the southeast by the said Henley Taylor's land, and on the southwest by the Burnt Ordinary lot.

The foregoing tract of land was surveyed Dec. 29, 1804, by order of Edmund Cowles, Sr., executor of the will of Thomas Cowles, deceased, and was situated at Burnt Ordinary which is now called Toano.

On the 24th day of June, 1820, the said Ann Cowles, Thomas E. Cowles and Caroline Q., his wife, Gideon Ratcliffe and Frances (Cowles) Ratcliffe, his wife, and Eliza G. Cowles, by Bennett Kirby, her guardian, she being still a minor, sold to Henley Taylor, Sr., 221¼ acres of land in James City Co., Va., for $553.12½, bounded on the north by Catharine Shelburne's land, on the northeast by a swamp, and the land belonging to the estate of Joshua Morris, deceased; from the said swamp up towards the house of said Cowles, deceased, by the land belonging to the estate of Alexander Jackson (a free man of color), the land of William F. Allen and a part of the twenty-five acres given by said Thomas Cowles, Sr., to his son Thomas E. Cowles, and sold by said Thomas E. Cowles to Henley Taylor, and thence along the line of the twenty-five acres to the Mill pond, thence down said pond to the Branch which divides said Cowles land from the land of William Goodale, thence up said branch to the church spring, thence to the road and along said road bordering on the land of I. Pointer to said Catharine Shelburne's land, the beginning (Appendices XXXI and XXXV).

Mr. David Spencer Cowles (34) wrote, in 1892, that his father's name was Thomas E. Cowles and that his father's mother's name was Mary, daughter of Ambrose Edwards of James City Co., Va., brother of Robert Edwards who died without issue and whose heirs were claiming a large fortune in New York City. But a record purporting to have been copied from his (D. S. Cowles') family Bible was as follows: "Thomas Cowles was married to Miss Fannie Edwards, daughter of Ambrosia Edwards, Dec. 25, 1770."

It will be observed that her given name is Mary in the first case and Fannie in the second, and that the widow of Thomas Cowles was named Ann.

The latter was doubtless the widow of John Kirby when she married Mr. Cowles, though some say John Kirby married Mr. Cowles' widow, who was a Miss Edwards. The latter statement is plainly erroneous.

John Kirby had at least three children, viz.: i. Col. Bennett Kirby who was guardian to Eliza G. Cowles in 1820. He married Miss Rebecca Hansford. Their daughter, Amanda Kirby, m. Mr. Bailey, whose daughter, Mrs. S. E. Marnex, resided in Norfolk, Va., in 1891; ii. Ann (Nancy) Kirby, m. 1806, Whitaker Lee;

iii. Sarah Kirby, m. Robert Lee (see William and Mary College Quarterly XXIV: 52).

Ann, widow of Thomas Cowles, was living in 1820 and all the Kirby children were born before that date, and were doubtless hers by John Kirby.

Eliza G. Cowles was probably the only child that she had by Mr. Cowles, all his other children being by his first wife.

Apropos of the Edwards family, the following appeared in the Richmond Times-Dispatch about 1903, but it is not known whether Ambrose Edwards mentioned therein is identical with the Ambrose Edwards named above.

"West Point, Va., March 24—In these days of Colonial research King William County, with her prominent families, old houses, graveyards, and old churches, deserves to be heard from as teeming with relics and traditions. Not only does she boast of a notable posterity for her families, but her claims of ancestry are well sustained, going back to the reign of Edward the Second, and to the time of the Norman Conquest. These then were the descendants of the Cavaliers and the Huguenots. * * *

"At Cherry Grove, the home of the Edwards family, the bricks were a kind of glazed brick of peculiar color differing from bricks made of native clay. The timber and lathes were hewn from logs, and the nails were fashioned by the smith on his anvil, and the whole structure was put together in a most substantial manner. It was built by Ambrose Edwards the immigrant who settled in King William in 1745, on a tract of land granted him by the King of England. The furniture is in keeping with its ancient surroundings, and thus valued. This house has been handed down from father to son, and is in very fair condition considering it is now occupied by the fifth generation. Near the old home is the last resting place of many of the older members of the family."

Children, by first wife.

- +13. Thomas Edward, b. 1775.
- +14. Frances, b. March 28, 1786.

- 15. Eliza G., b. 1800-1804; was a minor in 1820, at which time her half-brother, Bennett Kirby, was her guardian and with whom she went to live after her mother's death in the twenties. She removed to Franklin, Tenn., about 1827, probably with Gideon Ratcliffe's family and m. George Gillespie as his third or fourth wife (he had five). She had no children.

6. HENRY³ COWLES, son of Thomas² (2) of James City County, Va. He witnessed the will of Richard Brack of James City County in 1789, and is mentioned in the will of John Cooper of same county in 1791.

According to tradition he removed to Barren County, Ky., in 1804. He settled in what is now Edmonson County, Ky., much more desirable land having been passed over on account of the scarcity of water, on a farm some two miles from Pine Grove Church and five miles from Chalybeate Springs. He and his maiden sister Elizabeth are buried in the family burying ground on the farm but their graves are unmarked.

In 1903, a part of the farm was known as the Jerry Poteet place, and a part of it was owned by James Cowles (44), a grandson of Henry Cowles.

The wife of Henry Cowles was named Elizabeth and some of her descendants claim that her maiden name was Piggott, or Pickett. Edmund Cowles (11) married Elizabeth Piggott of Toana, Va., in May, 1800, but it is not impossible that there should have been two of the same name.

Henry Cowles was a Methodist, wore knee breeches and was a learned man. He bought land of a Mr. Holcomb in Edmonson Co., Ky., and there lived and died. (See Appendices XXVI, XXVII, XXXV.)

17. James Henry.

7. JAMES³ COWLES, son of Thomas² (2), was born and raised in James City Co., Va.; removed to Fauquier Co., Va., perhaps about 1785, as he bought 150 acres of land there in that year (Deed Book IX: 108).

He married Alice Edwards and they were both living there in 1825. After his death she went to live with her son John Cowles near Franklin, Tenn. She was there in 1830, where she died and was buried in the family burying ground on her son's farm afterward owned by her grandson Samuel Macon Cowles.

The family were Methodists, and James Cowles, says tradition, was a soldier in the Revolutionary War.

Alice Cowles, Enoch Jameson, and Frances E., his wife; Wesley Cowles and Elizabeth E., his wife; Richard Beale and Sarah, his wife; James Cowles, John Cowles and Mary J., his wife, and Henry B. Cowles conveyed Feb. 5, 1834, to Hezekiah McCoy their interest in 200 acres of land between Prince William and Fauquier Counties, owned by the late James Cowles (Deed Book XXXVI:231).

He may be the James Cowles who owned two slaves in Westmoreland Co., Va., in 1782 (Appendix XII).

- +25. John.
- +26. Henry Brown, b. Nov. 2, 1803, in Fauquier Co., Va.

8. REV. SAMUEL³ COWLES, son of Thomas² (2), b. Dec. 31, 1759, in James City Co., Va.; d. Nov. 9, 1825. The name of his wife is unknown. He removed to Georgia before 1800, as his first child was born there in 1798, and perhaps settled near Macon as some of his descendants were there and at Americus in 1906. He was a Methodist minister, and according to family tradition, a Revolutionary soldier. (See Appendix XXXV.) Perhaps he was the Samuel Cowles of Monroe Co., Ga., mentioned in "Georgia's Roster of the Revolution" in connection with the Land Grant Lottery in 1827, though then deceased.

11. EDMUND³ COWLES, son of Edmund² (4), was born in James City Co., Va., and died there about 1815, soon after the War of 1812 in which, tradition says, he was a soldier. It was said (see Appendix I) that Edmund Cowles, presumably our subject, removed to Barren Co., Ky., about the year 1804, with Henry Cowles (6), but it now appears that he never went there. Mr. Eugene Cowles (281), family historian, says in a letter April 12, 1919:

"I was much confused a few years ago when in southern Ky., looking for the grave of Edmund J.-7 (chart) to learn from the lips of some very old inhabitants there that they had never heard of Edmund J.-7, though they had known or heard much of Henry Cowles J.-6 (his brother(?))."

Forest Cowles (265), in a letter to Mr. Eugene Cowles in 1919, also says:

"I have heard my father talk a great deal about his own father and grandfather—it is untrue about his grandfather Edmund J.-7 (for whom he was named) ever coming to Ky.—he was never here—he died before his son John J.-24, came to Ky., and he died after his wife died and she was a Piggott."

The letter J. and numbers refer to the family chart. The chart was made by Mr. Eugene Cowles before the discovery of the information contained in Appendices XVII, XXVI, XXVII, XXX, XXXI, XXXV, and it was then believed that Edmund Cowles was a son of Thomas Cowles, but as his name does not appear in the list of Thomas Cowles' children in John Cooper's will, it is evident that he was not a son of Thomas Cowles (2). That he was the son of Edmund Cowles, Senior, there is but little, if any, doubt.

He married May, 1800, Elizabeth Piggott, b. Jan. 4, 1781; d. in Virginia, daughter of John Piggott, a wealthy planter of Toano, Va., b. Jan. 20, 1756, and his wife, Hannah Mitchell, b. April 18, 1759; d. Sept. 2, 1844. They were married Dec. 26, 1779.

Spencer, dau. of David Spencer of James City Co., Va., who was a Justice of the Peace in 1820. She married a second and third husband, by one of whom, named Bassette, she had a daughter, Lucy Bassette, who married a Dougherty. Mr. Cowles signed the Jubilee paper issued by Bishop Madison at Jamestown, May 13, 1807.

On Dec. 9, 1820, Thomas E. Cowles and Caroline Q., his wife, executed a deed in favor of Henley Taylor, Sr., of James City Co., Va., conveying a certain tract of land lying in the county of James City, containing twenty-five acres for 35 pounds, lawful money, which land was given to the said Thomas E. Cowles by a deed from his father, Thomas Cowles, deceased, bearing date April 11, 1803, which said land formerly belonged to the estate of John Allen, deceased, and was part of Allen's widow's dower, with all houses, woods, ways, waters, etc. This tract of land is referred to in a deed executed by Thomas E. Cowles and other heirs of his father, Thomas Cowles, June 24, 1820, conveying 221¼ acres to Henley Taylor, Sr. They were adjoining properties, situated east of the road leading from Richmond to Williamsburg, probably at Burnt Ordinary, now Toano, Va., and the presumption is that there is where they lived until 1820. In 1891, Mrs. Ella R. Kinnard (36 ii) mentioned her uncle Wesley Ratcliffe's family in Denver, Colo. Perhaps Wesley was the middle name of one of the sons in the list below.

The following named descendants were living in 1906: Mrs. J. T. Head and her sister, Miss Mary Brown Pierce, Birmingham, Ala.; Thomas G. Ratcliffe, St. Louis, Mo.; John A. Ratcliffe, Thompson, Tenn.; Robert Ratcliffe, Dallas, Tex., and William Cummins Ratcliffe, Little Rock, Ark. Perhaps there were others.

26. REV. HENRY BROWN⁴ COWLES, son of James³ (7), b. in Fauquier Co., Va., Nov. 2, 1803; d. Nov. 28, 1874, at the home of his son-in-law, Judge Edwin M. Mann of Petersburg, Va., while on his way to conference at Elizabeth City, N. C., and was buried in Blandford Cemetery, Petersburg, Va. He was of Methodist parentage; converted at Camp Meeting, Aug. 30, 1818, and joined the Methodist Church in Stafford Co., Va.; removed to Tennessee in early life, perhaps with his mother after his father's death; taught school for a while but returned to Virginia in 1830; licensed to exhort Nov. 27, 1830, in Culpeper Circuit; afterwards licensed to preach; joined the Virginia Conference in Feb. 1831, and was sent to Amherst Circuit; married some years later, Miss Juliet Irvine of Bedford Co., Va., at the house of his brother-in-law, Dr. Paul Cabell of Amherst Co.; spent 43 years in the Virginia Conference and rose to distinction in the ministry; was delegate to the General Conference of 1846 and 1854. He was Presiding Elder for twenty years, dying in that office; preacher in charge of many stations (Petersburg, Richmond, Lynchburg, etc.), and for five or six years, from 1854, was financial agent of Randolph Macon College, raising with the aid of Dr. William H. Smith, an endowment fund of $100,000, mostly lost by the war. (Chiefly from sketch prepared by Dr. Paul White-

Springs and near the Bowling Green Road and was buried at the old family graveyard two miles west of Chalybeate Springs, on the Bowling Green Road in Edmonson County, Ky. His wife was laid by his side, but the remains of both were removed in November, 1916, by their grandson, Eugene Cowles (281), to the Odd Fellows Cemetery at Smith's Grove, Ky.

At the same time the remains of Mrs. Susannah Henry Madison, wife of General Madison, and sister of Patrick Henry, were removed to the same cemetery and buried by their side. Later a stone was erected over the grave of Mrs. Madison at the expense of Capt. John H. Cowles (279).

John Cowles m. Susan G. Dunn, b. Oct. 29, 1802, in Botetourt Co., Va.; d. May 27, 1870, dau. of Julius Dunn, b. March 1, 1773; d. April 28, 1855, and was buried in the old family graveyard two miles west of Chalybeate Springs, Ky. He removed from Botetourt Co., Va., to Kentucky, and was a son of William Dunn who served in Capt. John Spotswood's Company of foot, 10th Va. Regt., Col. Edward Stevens, War of the Revolution. He enlisted Aug. 25, 1777, to serve three years and his name last appears on the roll of Col.(?) John Green's Co., 6th Va. Regt., for the month of Nov. 1779, dated at Camp near Morristown, December, 1779. His descendants are eligible for membership in the S. A. R. (See 279.)

His old Bible containing dates of birth, etc., was in the possession of John William Cowles (102) in 1903. His old flint-lock musket, on the barrel of which is engraved "6th Va. Regt." is in the possession of Eugene Cowles (281), having been given to him by his uncle, Henry Julius Cowles (103). It was changed from a flint, to a percussion lock about 1850 by John William Cowles (102), who was a great hunter. Some time after the death of his parents John Cowles removed to Barren, now Edmonson, Co., Ky., where he spent the remainder of his life. Mr. Eugene Cowles (281) writing of his great-grandfather, Edmund Cowles, says: "His son, John, born ———, made three trips to Virginia, riding horseback, once to break the will of his grandmother Piggott, who had left him $100 under a provision that 'If Edmund had any children they were to receive $100 each.' John got only $100 and it was brought to him some time later by Harmon Otter.

John's second trip to Virginia was to break the will of his grandmother, which he failed to do.

His third trip was to get his portion of a maiden aunt's estate. He got some $1,200.

My father remembers seeing him returning from one of these trips, riding into the yard on a large sorrel horse. He wore a long drab overcoat, brass buttons and a tall beaver hat. He brought a knife for each of his boys."

34. DAVID SPENCER⁵ COWLES, son of Thomas E.⁴ (13), b. April 27, 1819, in James City Co., Va.; d. June 2, 1894, at his residence on James River, just above Jamestown, Va.; m. Dec. 27, 1841, Miss Maria Woodson Childrey, b. March 22, 1822, dau. of Thomas and Elizabeth Childrey of Richmond, Va. She survived him.

Mr. Cowles served in the C. S. Army, perhaps in Co. I, 3d Va. Cavalry. The following tribute to his memory by Rev. W. F. Davis appeared in a newspaper published at the time of his death:

"He was converted at the age of twenty-one and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Williamsburg, Va. In this church for many years he was an official member, prominent and active in church work, and especially useful in the Sunday school as teacher and superintendent.

"A few years before the war he removed with his large family to the country, and transferred his membership to James River Church. From the organization of this church—the building of which was due chiefly to him—until about two years ago he was superintendent of the Sunday school. When increasing age and infirmity induced him to give up his loved employ, he was succeeded by his devoted and zealous son, Algernon.

"For a year or more, though nearly exempt by reason of years, he served in the Confederate Army.

"A long, useful and stainless life has ended. In all the relations of life he acted well his part. Genial, hospitable, of incorruptible integrity and unaffected piety, he carried to his grave the respect and love of a wide circle, and that in a community which knew him from infancy to old age. His house was always the home of the preachers, whom he delighted to entertain. Rev. Henry B. Cowles, of precious memory, was a relative.

"The writer of this tribute to his memory knew him during the last two years of his life only. He counts it a privilege to have known him, and to have visited him, as pastor, on his death bed. 'The chamber where the good man meets his fate, is privileged beyond the common walk, quite in the verge of heaven.' Such indeed was the case with our sainted brother, in full view of death, whose approach he welcomed. Not a cloud intervened between him and his Saviour. The serene, benignant, noble features had caught some brightness from the coming glory, which chased all gloom from the tears of the sorrowing group around.

"But two weeks previously he had been in Williamsburg on business; so his last illness was brief and, comparatively, it was also free from pain. At the last, arousing from the drowsy stupor of approaching dissolution, he regained full consciousness, called for the family, talked freely and fully with them all for an hour, and then fell asleep.

"Brother Cowles was a man of fine physical proportions and strikingly handsome face. These were fitting accompaniments of his gifts of mind and heart. His fellow-citizens testified their appreciation of his ability and trustworthiness by keeping him for most of his life, and even to the day of his death, in civil offices of honor. In his own home, besides raising a large family of his own, he had a large share in bringing up a score or more of orphan children, more or less dependent upon him.

"May the mantle of his faith fall upon his wife and loving son and daughter left to mourn his loss! 'Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his.'"

Turnea (Turner) Southall.

At a court held for Charles City county Wednesday the 6th day of June, 1770. the aforewritten last will and testament of Thomas Cowles, deceased, was presented in court by Bartholomew Dandridge, one of the Executors therein named, who made oath thereto, and being proved by the oaths of Henry Southall, Charles Collier, and Furnea (Turner) Southall, the witnesses thereto, is admitted to record, and on motion of the said executor, certificate is granted him for obtaining a probate thereof in due form on his giving security, whereupon he together with Julius King Burbidge, John Hopkins, William Gregory, And William Hamlin entered into and acknowledged their bond in the penalty of Ten thousand pounds current money, with condition according to law.

A codicil to the said will was proved by the oaths of Henry Southall and Furnea (Turner) Southall the witnesses thereto & is likewise admitted to record. Liberty is reserved for the other executor named in the said will to come in and join in the probat thereof whenever he shall think fit.

Test: Mordecai Debman, C. C. C.

At a court held for Charles City County Wednesday the 4th day of July 1770, William Clayton Gen't, the other Ex'or named in the foregoing will, came into court and made oath to the same according to law, and on his motion he has leave to join in the probat thereof, on his giving security, whereupon he together with Julius King Burbidge, John Apperson and William Gregory entered into and acknowledged their bond in the penalty of one thousand pounds current money, with condition according to law.

Test: Mordecai Debman, C. C. C."

William Clayton was a burgess from New Kent county in 1770, and Bartholomew Dandridge from same county 1772-1773. (See Journal of the House of Burgesses.)

The above will was copied from the records of Charles City County but not from the original will and the name Clayton as written above by the court is doubtless correct, instead of Clopton as appears in the copy of the will. Perhaps the Clayton, Cowles and Dandridge families were related.

Bartholomew Dandridge, b. Dec. 25, 1737; d. April 18, 1785, was son of John and Frances (Jones) Dandridge of New Kent County, Va. His sister Martha Dandridge m. (1) Col. Daniel

Parke Custis who d. 1757, and she m. (2) Col. George Washington. (See Va. Co. Records, Vol. 5, p. 30.)

The 84 acres of land in Amelia County, Va., patented by Thomas Cowles in 1756, and described in Appendix XV, were doubtless a part of the 1184 acre tract mentioned in the preceding will as the name of Coleman, Bevill and Tucker appear in both documents. (See also William and Mary College Quarterly, Vol. XVI, p. 140.)

Perhaps he, or his father, was the Thomas Cowles who made a motion at the February Court of Charles City County, Va., in 1739, for a causeway near Goodall's Ferry which was dismissed, but his petition to keep an Ordinary there was granted.

May 7, 1770, Thomas Cowles gave bond for keeping an Ordinary at Goodall's Ferry, and was likewise permitted to keep said ferry. (See Appendix XIV.)

May 8, 1742, Thomas Cowles, keeper of the public ferry over the Chickahominy River at Goodall's, petitioned the General Assembly that the name of said ferry might be altered and appointed from Goodall's to Hanmer's Point or Williams's'. (See Appendix X.)

For a description of the public ferries across Chickahominy River see Appendix XXXII.

Thomas Cowles lived in the vicinity of the present Holdcroft Postoffice on the main road from Charles City Courthouse to Goodall's, Cowles' or Edloe's Ferry across Chickahominy River at the mouth of Diascund Creek. His water grist mill was situated on Barrows Creek on the south side of said road, at the crossing, about one mile northeast of Holdcroft P. O., and doubtless his home was nearby. There is reason to believe that Edmund Cowles, son(?) of Richard, settled there in 1666 or before. (See Appendices V, XXXIV and XXXV.)

We do not know the name of Thomas Cowles' ancestors but there are good reasons to believe that he was a descendant of Richard Cowles of Charles City County, Va., 1614, and Edmund and Thomas Cowles of James City County, Va. Prior to 1720 James City County extended some distance west of Chickahominy River and it is believed that Edmund and Thomas Cowles lived on the west side in the vicinity of Holdcroft P. O., now in Charles City Co.

Thomas Cowles was known by the military title of colonel, but how he came by the title is not known. He was a wealthy planter as his will attests. That he was a man of influence and high social standing admits of no doubt. His children married into some of the first families of Virginia.

The executors of his will, both men of high standing, were probably his neighbors, and perhaps relatives, in adjoining counties on opposite sides of Chickahominy River, and there is reason to believe that Martha (Dandridge-Custis) Washington was at least an acquaintance of the family.

Colonel Mead m. (1) Ann Haile, who bore him seven children, and d. with her last child in 1769 at Royal Forest Place, Bedford Co., Va. He was a prominent man in the affairs of Bedford County and had accumulated, while deputy surveyor for Mr. Richard Stith of that county prior to 1769, over 40,000 acres of land which he sold or gave to his children by first wife. He was one of the incorporators of the town of New London (near Bedford Springs), in 1761; sheriff of the county; served as lieutenant and in other capacities in the militia of the county in the campaign against Fort DuQuesne and in the militia during the Revolution, for which service he secured various grants of land located in the southwest part of Virginia, one of them being for 2,666 $\frac{1}{3}$ acres issued May 10, 1785 for services with the Continental Army.

He removed to near Augusta, Ga., in 1785, with most of his family where he acquired also a large estate which he disposed of by his will which follows:

"In the name of God, Amen. I give and bequeath to my son Nicholas Mead, one guinea and no more in addition to what he already had of my estate.

Second. As it is my wife's desire to give my daughter Elizabeth Gordon ten or fifteen guineas and a mourning ring, I do therefore give and bequeath to her the said Elizabeth the said sum of ten or fifteen guineas and a mourning ring at the discretion of my executors.

I give, devise and bequeath to my sons Mahlon Mead and Stith Mead and their heirs forever all my lands in the State of Virginia undisposed of and remaining in the hands of Robert Mead, Charles Talbot, and John Callaway to be equally divided between them, but subject to be disposed of by Stith Mead for the respective benefit of each of them.

I give, devise and bequeath to my daughter Martha McMillan, wife of Alexander McMillan, and her heirs forever, the tract or parcel of land whereon she lives containing five acres and the negro slaves Esther, Nell, Doll, Bob—Harry, Phil, John, Matilda, Clary, Dicey, and Edmund, children of said Cate, and also Dicey, and my bay horse, Douglas, and three cows with their two calves, and also Sally, the daughter of Esther, and Davy, son of Nell, to have and to hold the said negroes, horse and cows, and land unto the said Martha McMillan and her heirs forever, so that neither the said Alexander McMillan nor any future husband which she shall or may have, shall have or exercise any right, title, or authority in or over said property, nor shall any part thereof be liable or subject to the payment of his debts, or the debts of any future husband, but the same shall be and remain to the sole and separate use and benefit of the said Martha McMillan and her heirs forever.

I give and bequeath to my daughter Priscilla Sims and her heirs forever, the following negro slaves to wit: Aggy, Anaky, Rachel, Charles, Pannier, And Ned and Betty with their increase, to have and to hold unto the said Priscilla Sims and her heirs forever, so that her present husband, Benjamin Sims or any future husband which she may have shall not have nor exercise any right, title or authority in or over said negroes, nor shall they or either of them be subject or liable to the payment of his debts or the debts of any future husband, but the same shall be and remain to and for the sole and separate use of the said Priscilla Sims and her heirs forever.

I give, devise and bequeath to my son Cowles Mead all the lands for which I have already executed a deed to him, and also the negro slaves Isham and Fed to have and to hold to him and his heirs forever.

I give, devise and bequeath to my son Marston Mead and his heirs forever all the lands for which I have executed a deed to him, and also the negro slaves Solomon and Manuel.

I give, devise, and bequeath to my daughter Catharine Jones and her heirs forever all the tract of land containing three hundred and sixty-nine acres more or less, bounded by Bugg and Glascock for which a deed has been already executed, and also the negro slaves Hannah, Nan, Milly, Jude, Tom, Reuben, Lewis, and Andrew and their increase: to have and to hold the land aforesaid to the said Catharine Jones and her heirs forever, so that her present husband, Thomas Jones nor any future husband which she may have shall not have or exercise any right, title or authority in or over the said land or negroes, but the same shall be and remain to and for the sole and separate use of the said Catharine Jones and her heirs forever.

I give, devise, and bequeath to my son William Mead and his heirs forever all the remaining part of the Cupboard tract of land yet undisposed of or not given before to my sons Cowles and Marston, and also the negro slaves Will and Robin together with all my household furniture.

I give, devise and bequeath to my son, Stith Mead, in trust for the use of William Jefferson McMillan and his heirs sixty-four acres of land on the head waters of Cupboard Creek bounded by Bugg and Lamar, and for which I have executed a deed.

And lastly I do hereby constitute and appoint my son Stith Mead executor of this my Last Will and Testament, hereby revoking and annulling all former wills by me made,. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal this nineteenth day of February, one thousand eight hundred and five.

W. Mead.

The statement is made in William and Mary College Quarterly, XXI:266, that Judge John and Mary (Mulford or Mumford?) Schley were the parents of Governor William Schley, but the age of the latter precludes this possibility.

6. THOMAS² COWLES, son of Col. Thomas¹ (1), b. ———; d. about 1787; m. Elizabeth Crawley of Williamsburg, Va. Among the marriage bonds on file in the York County Court, Yorktown, Va., appears the following: "29th August 1774, Thomas Cowles to Elizabeth Crawley, spinster, Security John Crawley, inclosing a neat note by Sarah Camp to the clerk, as guardian of Elizabeth Crawley. Witnessed by Jesse Cogbill and Edward Walker." And the following announcement appeared in the Virginia Gazette for Sept. 8, 1774: "Mr. Thomas Cowles of Charles City County to Miss Elizabeth Crawley of Williamsburg, a young lady who, besides an ample fortune, is endowed with every qualification to render the marriage state happy." (See Appendix XVIII.)

Charles City of the one part, and William Graves of the said county of the other part. She joined her son Nathaniel and wife in the execution of another deed Feb. 22, 1806, but without her husband indicating that he was then dead. The date of his death is not known. She probably had no children by her second husband as none are anywhere mentioned. (See Appendices XXXIII and XXXIV.)

Under the terms of his father's will Thomas Cowles inherited his father's homestead and plantation in Charles City County, together with the ferry and all the lands thereto adjoining, also the land and plantation opposite thereto in James City County.

The homestead was situated on the road from Charles City Courthouse to Edloe's or Cowles Ferry on the Chickahominy River opposite the mouth of Diascund Creek. It appears as Cole's Ferry on maps as late as 1861-65.

The first reference to Edloe's Ferry is in a patent of land to William (Marston) Cowles, Aug. 13, 1788, and it is next mentioned in an Act of the General Assembly of Virginia, passed Dec. 26, 1792, which fixed the rates from Edloe's land in Charles City to his land in James City and to Armistead's Point. It is surmised that he had bought Cowles Ferry and the lands adjacent thereto and on the opposite side of the river in James City County (see Appendix XXXII). The following administrator's account of Thomas Cowles' Estate contains no inventory of his real estate though it mentions his plantation and mill but not the ferry. The inference is that the latter had been disposed of.

Wm. Southall.

At a monthly court held for Charles City County on Thursday the 19th day of June, 1794 the forewritten account of Turnea (Turner) Southall, administration of the estate of Thomas Cowles, deceased, was this day returned and ordered to be recorded.

Children of Thomas and Elizabeth (Crawley) Cowles.
(Names may not appear in order of birth.)

- 15. Patsy.
- +16. Nathaniel.
- 17. Thomas (see foot note).
- 18. Sally (see foot note).
- 18a. Mary Wilkinson, b. 1785, believed to have been their dau. but her name does not appear in the list of their children, 1790-94. Perhaps she d. in infancy. (See Appendix XVIII.)

NOTE: in 1799 and 1806, Nathaniel Cowles and his mother executed two deeds (Appendices XXXIII and XXXIV), to what apparently was part of her dower lands in which all of Thomas Cowles' children were entitled to a reversionary interest, the law of primogeniture not then being in force. The fact that Nathaniel was the only child mentioned in the deeds would indicate that he was the only one then living but this contingency seems very improbable and there may have been some other reason for the omission of any reference to the other children in the deeds. Perhaps Thomas (17) and Sally (18) have been erroneously assigned as the children of Thomas³ Cowles (John², Thomas¹ of James City County, Va.) in the family records which are more or less traditional and therefore subject to doubt. This remark is intended merely as a suggestion for future inquiry.

7. WILLIAM MARSTON² COWLES, son of Thomas¹ (1) of Charles City County, Va., b. about 1751; d. 1828, at Selma, Ala.; m. Anna, perhaps a daughter of Thomas Meriwether, Sr., of Richmond County, Ga. He was buried near Selma.

By the terms of his father's will Mr. Cowles inherited a good estate which included a tract of land and plantation in Charles City Co., Va., known by the name of the Ridge, together with all lands adjoining thereto, and by virtue and in consideration of Land Office Treasury Warrant No. 12423, issued June 21, 1782, he obtained a patent dated Aug. 13, 1788, for a tract of land containing 403 acres in Westover Parish, Charles City County, Va. (Land Office Patent Book, No. 18, page 310, Appendix XXV), which he sold May 19, 1792 to William Graves. (Deed recorded at Charles City Courthouse.)

This tract of land is called Cowles Ridge in the deed, the northwest corner of which was crossed by the road leading from Cowles Ferry to Charles City Courthouse. In the patent this ferry is called Edloe's Ferry, and formerly it was known as Goodall's Ferry. From 1808 to as late as 1865, it appears on maps as Cole's Ferry, opposite the mouth of Diascund Creek, on Chickahominy River. Mr. Cowles was a resident of Georgia when he executed the deed in 1792. He settled at, or near Augusta, Ga., and during his residence there at least 10,000 acres of land were conveyed to him from time to time. The first two deeds to him of record were dated Sept. 26 and 28, 1790, for 250 and 365 acres, respectively, on Cupboard Creek.

A deed from Thomas Meriwether, Sr., of Richmond Co., Ga., to William M. Cowles, dated Oct. 9, 1793, conveyed certain slaves in consideration of 500 pounds sterling. (Recorded in G. 340.)

William M. Cowles and Anna, his wife, of Richmond Co., Ga., executed a deed Jan. 12, 1804, conveying to certain trustees of the M. E. Church two acres of land on the Louisville Road.

Mr. Cowles removed to Alabama in 1819, and during the latter part of his life resided near Selma, but whether he settled there first is not known.

Regarding the following copy of his will, the Probate Judge of Dallas Co., Ala., under date of April 1, 1919, remarks: "The records from which the will and proofs are taken are poorly written and the copy which I am enclosing is correct, except that the names could be read 'Moston' or 'Mostin' or 'Martin'. He merely signed himself William Cowles, abbreviated as above in the copy. In the proof also he is merely mentioned as William Cowles. His will was filed for probate Dec. 1, and proved Dec. 8, 1828." He does not appear to have used his middle name generally.

He was called William Cowles in the land patent in 1788, and signed himself Wm. Cowles in a deed in 1792.

A Board consisting of the Governor of Virginia, Bartholomew Dandridge, Esq., and others convened for the appointment of officers, Aug. 5, 1777, granted a warrant for eighty-eight pounds to William Cowles to recruit eleven men to entitle him to a third lieutenancy, in the Company of Artificers. Bartholomew Dandridge was one of the executors of his father's will, and guardian to his brother, Thomas Cowles. Perhaps the families were related. (Annual Report of Library Board of Va., Appendix XX.)

Mrs. Carrie W. (Holtzclaw) Kirkpatrick (39), great-granddaughter of William Marston Cowles, in a letter dated Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 2, 1909, wrote as follows:

"There has always been a tradition in our family connection that our family came from Virginia, from a creek having same or similar name. We know that an ancestor was in Revolutionary War but do not know his name. Major Cowles (Thomas M. 19) gave his spurs to my father, who married his niece, and they were stolen from him when wounded at battle of Shiloh."

Perhaps he was the William Cowles mentioned in Georgia's Roster of the Revolution, as having received County Warrant for Revolutionary service.

The following extract is from a family record of William Marston Cowles furnished by Miss Kate Shearer (45), Sept. 6, 1922:

"Married, I believe, Ann or Anna Meriwether. Lived in or near Augusta, Ga. Was public spirited man. Was one of those who entertained Geo. & Martha Washington when they made a tour of the States. Was appointed to open the ball given in their honor & to dance with Mrs. Washington. There is in the family a set of 5 silver buckles set with brilliants, he wore on that occasion. Mrs. T. C. Pepper, Belzoni, Miss., has in her possession one of the shoe buckles. Was buried near Selma, Ala."

Doubtless he had known President and Mrs. Washington in Virginia, as Bartholomew Dandrige was Mrs. Washington's brother. The tour referred to was made in 1791. (See Charleston, The Place and The People, by Mrs. St. Julien Ravenal, 1906, pp. 352, 354, 355, 357.) His son, Thomas M. Cowles, entertained President Millard Fillmore when he visited Montgomery, Ala., about 1850-2.

Also I give and bequeath to my son John A. Cowles all the land whereon I now live on the west side of the Alabama River. Also fraction thirty-three on the east side and to enable him to purchase the fractions four and nine on the west side of the river which I have relinquished, I give him the crop which may be on hand at the time of my death; also a lot of land in the town of Selma, containing six and $\frac{2}{10}$ acres; also three quarter sections of land on the east side of the river on Stanley's Creek; also my carriage and horses and all stock on the plantation of every kind, together with all tools or implements of husbandry, and all kinds of household and kitchen furniture, and also all notes, mortgages, and bills due to me and cash if any. Also thirty negroes his choice of those in my possession in families; to be valued as directed in the other two cases. Also my two sons Thomas M. Cowles and John Cowles, jointly my tract of land on big Soapstone Creek whereon I have mills and also two lots in the town of Montevallo, to belong to them and their heirs forever.

It is my will and direction, that all my negroes left on my plantation, after my son John A. Cowles has chosen his thirty, be valued as directed in the other cases and the valuation of the four several lots or parcels of negroes, shall be added together, and the amount of the whole divided into three parts, so that in the division of my negro property, each of my heirs shall receive an equal proportion.

It is also my will and direction, that all my lands in the State of Georgia that remain unsold, shall be sold by my executors and the proceeds thereof equally divided between my heirs. And for the faithful execution of this my last will and testament, I do hereby nominate and appoint my two sons Thomas M. Cowles & John A. Cowles and my son-in-law Gilbert Shearer to be my Executors.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed, my seal this fourth day of October in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty-eight.

16. NATHANIEL³ COWLES, son of Thomas² (6), made his will Feb. 19, 1816; probated April 18, 1816, at a court held for Charles City County, Va., of which he was a resident, bequeathing to his wife, Hannah Morris Cowles, all his estate, both real and personal, to her and her heirs forever. Executors: Wife, Hannah Morris Cowles, and friend Robert Tisdale; witnesses: William B. Westman, Sally Tisdale, Martha Allen.

In 1799 he joined in the execution of a deed to one water grist mill (see Appendix XXXIII), and in 1806 to 98 acres of land (see Appendix XXXIV).

On March 19, 1810, Nathaniel Cowles and Hannah, his wife, of Charles City County, Va., conveyed to John E. Brown of James City County, Va., all their present right, title and interest to the reversion of seven slaves and their increase now in the possession of Ann Allen, as her dower in the slaves of William Allen, deceased, which said William was the father of Hannah Cowles, and for the better understanding of what is hereby bargained and sold, it is agreed between the parties hereto, as there at this time are fourteen children of William Allen alive, all of whom are entitled to a reversionary interest in the above seven slaves held by Ann Allen as her dower, etc. (See also Appendices XXVIII, XXIX.)

In 1813, Nathaniel Cowles and Hannah, his wife, of Charles City County, Westover Parish, Va., conveyed to certain trustees a tract of land for a place of divine worship to the use of the Baptist Society, but when not immediately occupied by that society, then to be free for any other orderly minister who is in full fellowship with his sect, and lying and being in the county and parish aforesaid, on the main road leading from Charles City Courthouse to Edloe's Ferry, and bounded as follows, to wit: Beginning at a gum tree near the said road and on the north side thereof, thence running about a north course on the line between the said Cowles and the heirs of William Southall, deceased, to a large scrub white oak, thence about east to a small old field pine and two small cedars on said road, thence up said road as it meanders to the beginning, containing about one acre, etc.

The inventory and appraisement of the estate of Nathaniel Cowles, made April 26, 1816, included six negroes, a lot of live stock, household goods and furniture, a part of which was of mahogany. Total, $1,736.06½. The inventory included no real estate but in the account of sales of the estate, Aug. 12, 1816, are the following items: Rent of plantation to 1st of January next, with corn, fruit, etc., now growing $100; crop of wheat in the straw $57.25; crop of rye in the straw $21.00 (Appendix XXXV).

Among the names of the purchasers were John Edloe, William Holdcroft, Robert Holdcroft and Richard Binns, for whose families Edloe's Ferry, Holdcroft P. O. and Binns P. O. doubtless were named.

No children were mentioned in Nathaniel Cowles' will and the presumption is that he died without living issue. (See also Appendices XXVIII and XXXV.)

19. MAJOR THOMAS MERIWETHER³ COWLES, son of William Marston² (7), b. 1794, probably near Augusta, Ga.; d. March 12, 1857, at Montgomery, Ala.; m. Elizabeth Ware of Montgomery. He was among the first Georgia planters, who just after the War of 1812, penetrated beyond the Creek Nation and settled on Alabama River, then a part of Mississippi Territory. He settled with his negroes, first in Clarke, and removed in 1827 to Montgomery Co., Ala., where he resided until his death. His wonderful energy and practical intelligence gave him peculiar success in his plantation and other enterprises. It was owing, in a great degree, to his energy that the Montgomery and West Point Railroad (one of the first roads) was built, and he was its first president.

He was very public spirited and when President Fillmore, about 1850-2, visited Montgomery, Major Cowles entertained him at his beautiful country home four miles from the city.

The following description of his city residence appeared in a newspaper published about the year 1909:

"Situated on a high bluff in the western part of Montgomery, and overlooking the Alabama River, the Union passenger station, and various other manufacturing interests, is one of the oldest, handsomest, and most historic buildings in Montgomery.

The handsome old Cowles home now the property of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company, and used by that company as their Montgomery office building, has one of the most interesting histories of any building in Montgomery. The house which is of Colonial construction, is a type of the very acme of the grace, beauty, and magnificence of the architecture of ante bellum days.

Major Thomas M. Cowles, an immensely wealthy planter, completed his magnificent city residence in the year 1856, at the fabulous cost of $104,000 and the beautiful home was opened for the first time for the wedding reception of the major's niece, Miss Molly Cowles, who was married to Mr. James T. Holtzclaw, and who was the mother of Mrs. J. A. Kirkpatrick of this city.

Major Cowles lived only one year after the completion of his magnificent home, but that he enjoyed and appreciated the beauty and luxury of such a home is understood, for when dying, he is said to have turned to those gathered about him and said, speaking of his home, 'Cowles' folly, they call it, but it is a comfortable place to die in.'

After the death of Major Cowles, his magnificent estate was divided among his wife and his nieces and nephews, he having no children, the house falling to the wife's share. Mrs. Cowles afterwards was married to Col. Edmund Harrison, and for a number of years kept up the home in magnificence. She then dissented from the will of Major Cowles, which caused the house to be sold for division among the legatees, and it was bought by Col. William H. Graves. * * * *

It requires no stretch of the imagination, to be able to picture scenes, magnificent and brilliant, of the social gatherings in those beautiful rooms in those days.

The large rooms with their vaulted and frescoed ceilings, the woodwork throughout the entire building of solid hand carved mahogany, the mirrors in frames of gold, extending from the floor to the ceiling, priceless pictures and statuary and draperies of fabulous cost, blending their lights and colors, beautiful women and gallant men, and over it all the soft light from magnificent chandeliers.

Much of the handsome rosewood and mahogany furniture of that grand home is the treasured possession of some of the heirs of Major Cowles and today graces some of Montgomery's most charming homes.

Colonel Graves, on removing to Birmingham, sold the place to the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company. * * *

The handsome statuary, together with the yard full of the most beautiful japonicas in Montgomery, were removed by the company and sent to Tampa Bay Hotel, which is owned and operated by the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad. The yards surrounding the house, which were at one time the handsomest in Montgomery, have been entirely dug away to make room for the network of railroad tracks of the Atlantic Coast Line Company and now 'tis but the matter of a few more months until the grand old home, the landmark of a 'day that is past' will be but a memory in the lives of the few who have known and loved its inmates and who have enjoyed the wide open hospitality of its owners in the days of 'auld lang syne.'" * * * *

No children.

1. JOSEPH¹ COWLES of Torrington, Conn. Our knowledge of his history rests entirely upon the following family traditions: Letter of Clifford S. Cowles (54), Feb. 10, 1894:

"Since receiving yours of Jan'y, 25th, I have a letter from Mrs. Harrington [15] who lives at Dassel, Minn. She was the 9th child of Elliot and Sally (Phelps) Cowles. She writes that her grandfather was named Horace and that he had two brothers, viz.: Benjamin and Joseph, that the family came originally from Hartford, Conn., that Joseph was a family name."

Letter of Clifford S. Cowles, March 27, 1905:

"I talked the matter over with an old aunt of mine, Sarah Salome Harrington, the ninth born of Elliot Cowles' family, who lived in Minneapolis and who recently died, and I think she stated that Elliot Cowles' father was named Joseph."

Letter of Mrs. Mary A. (Minthorn) Struever (30), April 2, 1905:

"As I always understood from my mother, Huldah Cowles, Grand-pa Joseph Cowles came from Staffordshire, England to America at the time of the Revolutionary war. He had been bound out by an older brother as an apprentice but was not satisfied and left unbeknown to his family. There was an older brother, Edward, and three sisters, Mehitable, Mahalie and Dorothy, all I think unmarried. Our grand father served under Washington during the war. He married Jerusha Frisbie, daughter of Levi Frisbie of Burlington, Ver. [Conn.?]. Their children were Joseph, Horace, Benjamin, Elliot and Huldah, who was my mother."

A Levi Frisbie and his wife Phebe were baptized and received into the church at Burlington, Conn., in 1800, and in the same year dismissed to Orville (Orwell?), Pa. (see 3070).

Letter of George Morelle Cowles (45), Feb. 12, 1894:

"The following statistics are gathered from Manuscripts written by Ancestors of the Cowles Family. Our Great G. Grand Father was born in Suffolkshire, England. He was left an Orphan at 10 years of age. He had one Brother and Two Sisters. His given name not mentioned. It is stated he left home and went to London. While yet young pressed himself aboard a Man of War in Service of the Revolutionary War, was discharged when 16 years old. He went to Conn.—settled in the town of Torrington, Litchfield Co. He married Samantha Sanford. They had 5 children 4 Sons and 1 Daughter whose name was Huldah. Their Sons' names were Joseph, Benjamin, Horace & Elliott."

Letter of Mrs. Rose G. (Cowles) Card (44), March 1, 1894:

"I hope the following history may aid you some. I think it is correct, altho incomplete. My great-great-grandfather was born in Suffolkshire, Eng. At 10 years of age he was left an orphan. His brother, older, bound him out to a man, a tanner by trade, he ran away. He had one brother & two sisters. I do not know his given name. He went to London while very young, pressed himself aboard a Man-of-War in service of the Revolutionary War, was discharged when 16 years old. He then settled in the town of Torrington, Litchfield Co., Conn. He married and had 5 children, 4 sons, 1 daughter. Viz.: Joseph, Benjamin, Horace, Elliot and Huldah."

Letter of Mrs. Mary E. (Cowles) Moore (39), March 12, 1894:

"I herewith send you all the knowledge in my possession, which was obtained from an uncle (now deceased). My great grandfather was born in Suffolkshire, Eng. He was left an orphan at 10 years of age (his given name not mentioned). After his father's death his only brother bound him out to a blacksmith, but being unkindly treated, ran away from home and went to London, pressed himself aboard a Man-of-War in service of the Revolutionary War, was discharged at the age of 16. He then went to Conn. and settled in the town of Torrington, Litchfield Co., where he married Samantha Sandford (he had two sisters but their names, nor the brother's name, was not given). They had five children—Huldah, Joseph, Benjamin, Horace and Elliot."

Letter of Mrs. Sarah (Cowles) Hall (51), Feb. 3, 1894:

"I will tell you in regard to the family of which I am the direct descendant. My great grandfather came from England, his name I don't know certainly but think it was Elliott. There was a brother Horace who was said to be a pirate on the high seas—that is the legend. I don't know it from any record. My grandfather spent his boyhood in Old England and in that day the name was spelled Cole, after coming to this country, it was changed to Coles and afterwards to Cowles."

Letter of Miss Lizzie B. Cowles (56), Nov. 18, 1906:

"My great grandfather Joseph Cowles came from Staffordshire, Eng., to Conn., just previous to the revolution & enlisted & served under Washington. He was only nineteen when he came to America. He married Jerusha Frisbie, daughter of Capt. Benj. Frisbie of Torrington, Conn., where they are both buried."

If they were buried in the cemetery in the village their graves are unmarked.

A descendant of Elliot Cowles (3), stated that the name of the latter's father was Joseph or John. As we have seen, others say it was Horace or Elliott, but the greater number that it was Joseph which probably is correct. The foregoing traditions are contradictory in other respects but with our present knowledge it would be impossible to reconcile them. All that mention the origin of the founder of the family agree that he came from England to America and most of them that he served in the army or navy in the Revolutionary War. It is not understood how he could have impressed himself aboard a man-of-war in London in the service of the Revolution as that was an enemy port. Being discharged at the age of 16 he came to Connecticut. Another tradition says he came from England just previous to the Revolution, enlisted and served under Washington, and still another that he served under Washington.

The available official records of Connecticut men in the Revolution contain the names of only two persons named Joseph Cowls or Cowles and they are believed to be Joseph Cowles (247) and Joseph Cowles (503), family of John Cowles of Farmington, Conn., and Hatfield, Mass. Tradition, always untrustworthy, is usually a mixture of fact and fancy, and it is possible that our subject is identical with Joseph Cowles (247), above, of Canaan, Conn.

Regarding the legend that Horace, brother of Elliott¹? (or Joseph¹) Cowles was a pirate on the high seas it is sufficient to say that none of the other traditions mention a brother Horace. The legend probably grew out of the fact that Joseph², son of Joseph¹ Cowles, went to sea and was never again heard from. This is a good illustration of how tradition is generally made, with a little fact and much fiction, and emphasizes the necessity of accepting it with caution and reserve. The fiction, however, is rarely intentional but usually results from the inability of the average person to repeat correctly from memory what he has seen, read or heard.

It is difficult, if not impossible to sum up the general characteristics of a family in a few words but perhaps the following summaries by two descendants of Joseph Cowles, writing in 1894, may prove both interesting and instructive. A great-granddaughter said:

"The Cowles family were clannish, believing heartily in their own Kin. They were hospitable, generous to a degree, faithful friends and good haters as the case demanded, medium sized, good looking people, light-complexioned, gray-eyed, brown-haired, always thinking highly of themselves—that was a marked characteristic and holds good at the present time * * * My father's people (Cowles) were Universalists."

A grandson wrote as follows:

"The family were mixed in politics, but a majority were Republicans * * *. In religion our family have been very liberal and when any have belonged to a church it has been the Universalist Church * * *. Those of the Cowles name, so far as I know, are generally medium in stature and generally slender * * *. The family are generally dark, have dark brown or nearly black hair, eyes generally grey."

It is assumed that the foregoing summaries refer to this branch of the family only.

Children.

2. Joseph, b. 1782, in Torrington, Conn.; went to sea and was never again heard from.
- +3. Elliott, b. March 5, 1783, in Hartford (New Hartford?), Conn.
4. Horace, b. 1784; m. Anna Bradley in Connecticut; removed to Ohio and resided at Ravenna and Portsmouth; they had several children; one of their sons was a glass manufacturer in Pittsburgh, Pa.
- +5. Benjamin, b. 1786.
- +6. Huldah, b. May 8, 1790, in Litchfield, Conn.

3. ELLIOTT² COWLES, son of Joseph¹ (1), b. March 5, 1783, in Hartford (New Hartford?), Conn.; d. April 6, 1852, in Chardon, Ohio; m. Feb. 13, 1806, Sally Salome Phelps. The date of her birth is given variously as Feb. 1793, and Feb. 7, 1791, in the town of Barkhamsted, Conn. According to the former she would have been only 13 years old at the date of marriage and according to the latter 15, both ages unusually young for matrimony. The latter date is taken from Elliott Cowles' family Bible in the possession of his granddaughter, Mrs. Ada M. (Cowles) Hunter (58a), Winnebago, Ill., in 1920. The record reads: "Sally S. Cowles, Born Feb. 7th, 1791," but she says the figures 91 have apparently been tampered with. Neither the place of birth, her maiden name, nor the names of her parents are mentioned, but the Barkhamsted Vital Records say, "Sally Salome, a Daughter of Oliver & Sarah Phelps was Born February 7th, 1791." Other family records say her name was Phelps and the names of her parents appear as Oliver and Sarah (Miner) Phelps of Winsted, Conn., in the record of Clifford S. Cowles (54), in the Year Book of the Minnesota Society, S. A. R., 1889-1895, but according to the Phelps Genealogy published in 1899, a Sarah Phelps, b. Barkhamsted, Conn., Feb. 7, 1791, dau. of Oliver and Sarah (Miner) Phelps, went with her father to St. Johnsbury, Vt., in 1806, married Ephraim Paddock and had a son, H. R. Paddock, who was living in Boston, Mass., in 1880. It does not seem possible that both of these records can be correct but proof to the contrary is lacking.

Mr. A. T. Servin, one of the authors of the Phelps Genealogy, wrote as follows in 1896: "Sallie Salome Phelps' family are of the line of Mr. William Phelps, the emigrant of 1630, but as yet cannot place her." The Phelps Genealogy was published three years later but contained no mention of Sallie Salome Phelps. Mrs. Cowles d. Oct. 21, 1854, at Chardon, Ohio.

Elliott Cowles lived in New Haven, Conn., a short time after his marriage, then removed to New Berlin, Chenango Co., N. Y., and thence about 1840 to Batavia, Clermont Co., Ohio, where he and his wife lived on a farm during their years of activity whence they went to Chardon, Geauga Co., Ohio, and spent their remaining years with their son Benjamin. In the family record kept in the Bible, presumably by Mrs. Cowles, the name appears as Coles and Cowles, first one way and then the other.

In 1843, he removed with his father from Chardon, Ohio, to Jefferson, Mich., where the latter had bought 160 acres of land, making the journey in a buggy. An ox-team, driven by members of the family followed with the household furniture. Judge Cowles reviewed his long journey in the History of Ingham County, which he assisted in writing before his removal to California in 1905-6. After the usual common school education, obtainable at the time, he entered the Michigan Agricultural College and graduated in its first class, and in 1862 received his degree from the law department of the University of Michigan. He enlisted at Lansing, Mich., Aug. 9, 1862, in Co. A, 20th Mich., Vol. Inf., for 3 years; mustered, Aug. 18, 1862; corporal, Aug. 18, 1862; discharged for disability at Louisville, Ky., May 23, 1863. From May, 1864, he practiced law at Lansing, held many offices under the city government and served four years as judge of probate. Judge Cowles was an influential member of the Grand Army of the Republic, serving several times as its commander. The bar of Ingham County paid high tribute to his character and ability as a citizen, an attorney and a friend in a special meeting called for that purpose. Oct. 16, 1853, Delia L., dau. of Alanson and Olive (Perkins) Ward of Warsaw, N. Y. When a boy of nine years he moved with his family to Chardon, Ohio, and in 1842, he moved with his brother Joseph Phelps Cowles and his family to Aurelius, or Jefferson(?), Ingham Co., Mich. There they erected a sawmill, running it summers and in the winters Mr. Cowles taught school. During the winter of 1846-47, when he was teaching in Ionia, the last legislature sitting in Detroit voted to locate the new capital at the intersection of the Red Cedar and Grand Rivers. As soon as the spring opened, Mr. Cowles starting on foot through the woods, arrived April 10, 1847, at the same time the commissioners for laying out the capital did and there remained a continuous resident until his death. A log house occupied by father Page and his three sons-in-law marked North Lansing at that time. Mr. Cowles slept for two weeks in a barn in rear of the now Franklin Terraces until the house Smith Tooker was building on Wall Street, on the site of the house Mr. Spear occupied in 1912, was completed. Mr. Cowles was a contractor and builder, and erected many of the first buildings of Lansing and assisted in the first capitol. He very soon became interested in mercantile business with Hiram H. Smith, continuing their business relations until Mr. Smith moved to Jackson. During the partnership he acquired by purchase from different parties the entire block on Washington Ave., between Saginaw and Madison streets, where he built the home occupied by the family. In 1856, he purchased the property on the southwest corner of Washington Ave. and Ottawa Street, where he erected two store buildings and for many years conducted the city's leading dry goods business, afterwards selling out to his son-in-law, the late N. F. Jenison. He intended to retire from business but his active nature demanded something as an outlet and this he found as a commercial traveler for the Lansing Wagon Works in the states west of the Missouri River. Mr. Cowles enlisted in the Mexican War but his company was not called into active service. He was identified with many of the early enterprises of the city, being one of the company which completed the toll road from Detroit, and was with the commissioners when they located the M. A. C. He was also actively connected with the securing of the early railroads, especially devoting much time personally to the Lake Shore. He was associated with D. W. and J. W. Buck in building the opera house and was its first manager during the time that such famous artists as Joseph Jefferson, Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Maggie Mitchell and Janaushek made their appearance in Lansing. He served the city as alderman many years, and led the fight for the restoration of the bridges when they were swept away by flood in 1875. He also introduced the ordinance compelling the people to plant shade trees and after much opposition secured its passage, thus giving to Lansing its beautiful shade trees. For the last few years of his life Mr. Cowles lived with his daughters, first with Misses Lizzie B. and Lucie D., at the home on Washington Ave., and later with his daughter, Mrs. N. F. Jenison, Seymour Street, where he died. (Mich. Pioneer and Hist. Coll., Vol. 38.)

The first of these is the fact that the United States is a young nation, and that its history is a history of growth and development. The second is the fact that the United States is a nation of immigrants, and that its history is a history of the struggle for a better life. The third is the fact that the United States is a nation of free men, and that its history is a history of the struggle for freedom.

The history of the United States is a history of the struggle for a better life. It is a history of the struggle for freedom, for justice, and for peace. It is a history of the struggle for the rights of the individual, for the rights of the minority, and for the rights of the people. 1. ROBERT¹ COWLES of Ballaugh County, Isle of Man. His ancestry has not been traced. A descendant in a letter dated New York City, Sept. 1, 1914, wrote as follows:

"So you see I can claim no kinship to the American family. 1. SAMUEL⁶ COLE, alias Cowles (supposed ancestry, David⁵, Jonathan⁴, Samuel³, John², James¹ Cole, see Cole Genealogy, 1887). If this be the correct line he was b. in 1755, but it does not agree with the conflicting statements as to his age given in his applications for a pension. He d. in Brookfield, N. Y., Aug. 28, 1834, reputed to be over 90 years old, and was buried in the adjoining town of Sangersfield. He m. (1) Mrs. Eleanor Forbes, formerly the wife of Asa Forbes (perhaps a son of Hiram, known to his descendants as "Lord" Forbes), by whom she had two children, one of whom, Asa Forbes, Jr., married Permilia, or Permillia, Lanphear or Lanfere, and had three sons and two or three daughters, viz.: i. Andrew J. Forbes, who lived near Poolesville, N. Y.; ii. Gilbert Forbes, d. in Vienna, N. Y.; iii. son, m. Jane, dau. of Elisha Risley of Vienna, N. Y.; iv. Permillia Forbes, m. Jeremiah Sweet of Brookfield, N. Y., who m. (2) the widow of Gilbert Forbes, above; v. daughter, m. Franklin Blandin of Brookfield, N. Y.; vi. daughter.

The date and place of Mrs. Eleanor Cole's death are unknown but she probably died in Connecticut.

Samuel Cole m. (2) Mrs. Jannet, or Jenny, Simonds(?), b. 1760, by whom he had no children so far as known. They took a boy, James Simonds, or Symonds, b. 1800, to bring up, who was counted as a member of the family in 1820, but not in 1824.

Samuel Cole bought two acres of land adjoining his own in East Hartford, Conn., in 1784, and sold nine acres in the same locality in 1802, after which date his name does not appear in the land records again and he probably moved away about that time. There is a family tradition that he was born in Connecticut on the road between Danbury, Conn., and Brewster, N. Y., but this is improbable. He may have lived there for a time after leaving East Hartford, a surmise which is supported by the fact that the father of his son Samuel Cowles' wife lived at Danbury (Mill Plain?).

In old notes, deeds and memoranda dated from 1805 to 1830, at Brookfield and Sangersfield, N. Y., the name of Samuel Cole and his son Samuel appears as Col, Cole, Coals, Cowle and Cowles, first one way and then another, without any progressive change in spelling. The names of Asa Forbes and Joseph Field, brother of the wife of Samuel Cowles, Jr., also appear in these papers.

Whether Samuel Cole, Sr., ever took or used the name Cowles is doubtful. It appears as Cole in his three applications for a pension, in one of which he stated that he was an illiterate man and unable to read or write. The change in the name from Cole to Cowles was probably made by his children who were brought up in East Hartford, Conn., where the Cowles family were numerous at that time, and his descendants have since adhered to the latter name, Cowles.

A deed executed at Brookfield, N. Y., May 13, 1823, and signed Samuel Cowle, his mark, conveyed to Samuel Cowle, Jr., and Israel Loomis, 20 acres of land in the town of Brookfield, N. Y., 19th township, being part of a lot known as No. 2, beginning at the northeast corner of the land deeded to Samuel Cowle, Jr., and running north 27 rods, thence west far enough to contain 20 acres of land. This, presumably, was part of his home lot. According to family tradition Samuel Cole, Sr., with his son Samuel and the latter's wife, moved from Connecticut onto what has since always been called Cole Hill. He located on the poorest farm in Brookfield, Madison Co., N. Y., and built a house on the right-hand side of the road as you go south, about half way to the school house, where his son Samuel, and wife, lived for more than half a century.

He was a farmer, and a soldier and pensioner of the Revolution.

He stated in his first declaration for a pension, dated Brookfield, N. Y., April 13, 1818, that he was a soldier on the Continental establishment in the Revolutionary War; enlisted for three years as a private in the month of March, 1777, in Capt. Ebenezer Watrous' company, Col. Samuel B. Webb's regiment, Continental Line; transferred to Capt. Samuel William Williams' company toward the close of his term of service, and was discharged therefrom in the month of March, 1780. His claim was allowed, but on account of his property his name was subsequently dropped from the pension list.

He made a second declaration, dated Brookfield, N. Y., June 20, 1820, and gave an inventory of his property, for the purpose of being restored to the pension list. He stated that he served in the Revolutionary War, in the Continental Line, under Col. Ebenezer Huntington, in Capt. Samuel B. [W.] Williams' company, and that his family consisted of himself aged 69 years, Jannet Cole, his wife, 59 years, and James Simonds, 20 years, a boy taken to bring up.

He made a third declaration at Brookfield, N. Y., June 16, 1824, under the Act of March 1, 1823, in which he stated that he enlisted for three years at East Hartford, Conn., March 20, 1780, in Capt. Samuel Williams' company, Col. Samuel B. Webb's regiment, Conn. Line, on the Continental establishment, and continued to serve in said corps until the expiration of the said period when on the 20th of March, 1783, he was discharged from the said service at Morristown, N. J.; that his name had been placed on the pension list and dropt therefrom on account of his property; that he was compelled to sell his land to pay his debts and "that the said land in his former inventory was appraised at a sum far exceeding the real value, this declarant being an illiterate man & unable to read & write & not being aware at the time of the value affixed thereto in his said former declaration," and that the members of his family were himself aged 77 years and his wife, Jenny Cole, aged 64 years.

His total service in the Revolution was only three years and he evidently made a mistake of three years in the dates given in his third declaration. His statement of service in his first declaration agrees substantially with the official record which follows. His regiment was at Morristown, N. J., in March, 1780, but not in 1783.

The official record of his service appears in "Connecticut Men in the Revolution," page 248 as follows: "Coals, Samuel, private, Capt. Watson's co., Col. Samuel B. Webb's regt.; enlisted March 20, 1777 for 3 years; discharged March 20, 1780."

A return of Capt. Samuel William Williams' company, Col. S. B. Webb's regiment, dated West Point, N. Y., Nov. 29, 1780, shows Samuel Cole, private; enlisted for 3 years; married; pay per month 40 shillings; expiration of service March 26, 1780; whole term of service 2 months, 19 days; pay due 5 pounds, 5 shillings and 4 pence. There was no other Samuel Cole, or Coals, in this company. He was probably transferred to Capt. Williams' company, Dec. 31, 1779, and the whole term of service in his company was as stated, exclusive of prior service elsewhere.

In 1780, the family of Samuel Cowls, Col. Webb's Regt., received supplies from the town of Hartford. (Conn. Hist. Society Coll., Vol. 12.)

Moses A. Abbey, a great-grandson of Samuel Cole, wrote in 1900, from Preston, Ont., as follows: "In that house (though I must have been very young), but in that house I saw your and my great-grandfather. * * * As I said your great-grandfather was a soldier of the Revolution of 1776, and was with Gen. Washington at Valley Forge that memorable winter of great suffering, cold, hunger, and want of clothing." This was the winter of 1777-78.

The following named children were baptized in the Congregational Church at East Hartford, Conn.:

Moses, child of Samuel and Eleanor Cole, April 15, 1779.

Samuel, child of Samuel and Eleanor Cole, Aug. 7, 1786.

David } children of Samuel Cole, Oct. 31, 1790.
Eleanor }

The names of the above children are identical with those in the family record of Samuel and Eleanor Cole, except that of David, who perhaps died young, and there is a difficulty about Eleanor, who must have been born well before 1790 to have wed in 1800 as she did. However there is no record of any other Samuel Cole in East Hartford during the time that these children were baptized and the presumption is that they were his.

Children of Samuel and Eleanor Cole, all baptized at East Hartford, Conn.

2. Moses, bapt. April 15, 1779; according to family tradition went to the West India Islands and died there unmarried, but perhaps he was the Moses Cowles of New London, Conn., who died in Savannah, Ga., in 1805, age 27 years. (See Moses Cowles' record post.)
- +3. Samuel, b. Oct. 10, 1784; bapt. Aug. 7, 1786.
4. David, bapt. Oct. 31, 1790; perhaps d. young.
- +5. Eleanor, bapt. Oct. 31, 1790.

3. SAMUEL⁷ COWLES, son of Samuel⁶ Cole (1), b. Oct. 10, 1784; bapt. at East Hartford, Conn., Aug. 7, 1786; d. at Brookfield, N. Y.; m. Mary Field, b. Sept. 1, 1776; d. at Brookfield, N. Y., dau. of Elnathan and Jane (Palmer) Field of Dingle Ridge, N. Y., and Danbury (Mill Plain?), Conn. According to family tradition they lived in Connecticut on the road from Danbury to Brewster, N. Y., and removed thence to Brookfield,

N. Y., about the year 1800, but it was probably later as he was then only 16 years old, too young to wed, and we do not hear of any of the family living in Brookfield until 1805. He and his wife lived on the old homestead on Cole Hill, Brookfield, for more than half a century. His surname appears as Cole in the Field Genealogy of 1901, as Cowles on old papers as early as 1806, but as Coles in 1809, again as Cowles in 1818, and in a deed in 1823, as Cowle. His descendants now use the name Cowles.

In 1823, Samuel Cowle deeded to him and Samuel Cowle, Jr., 20 acres of land in Brookfield. In the marriage record Eleanor Cowles' name appears as Eleanor Cowls (see East Hartford Town Records, Vol. 1, p. 28, and Loomis Genealogy, p. 260, and Addenda thereto, p. 612).

1. MOSES¹ COWLES, m. Jeannette Cole. They resided in New London, and also kept a coffee house in Hartford, Conn., but removed to Savannah, Ga., where he d. Aug. 9, 1805, age 27, of remittent fever. (Cemetery Records, Savannah, Ga.) She returned to New London and d. about 1806. Application for letters of administration on his estate was made by James Willy in the Court Ordinary at Savannah, Ga. The original application has been lost and the only papers on file in 1903 were two bonds, one for $4,000, dated Aug. 17, 1805, the other for $2,000, dated Oct. 16, 1805.

They left two young children, David and Charles Henry Trumbull Cowles. The former, many years ago, wrote to Jonathan Trumbull of New London, Conn., asking for some information as to whom and what their parents were. He told him their father's name was Moses Cowles and their mother's name Jeannette (Cole) Cowles. The information was very meager. Mr. Trumbull spoke of the number of ships owned by himself and engaged in the whaling trade. Moses Cowles seems to have named one of his sons for him, and possibly he was employed by him on the sea. He may have been the Moses Cowles, son of Samuel and Eleanor Cole of East Hartford, Conn., and Brookfield, N. Y., who family tradition says died in the West India Islands unmarried (see their record ante).

In 1800, Asa Lathrop sold to Moses Cole, or Cowles, a house in Norwich, Conn., which is near New London. Possibly he was the same person as our subject (see "Old Houses of the Antient Town of Norwich, Conn.").

The following obituary notice appeared in the Springfield Republican, Dec. 19, 1897:

"Thomas Cowles, a well-known Westfield man, died at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the age of 81 years. He had been feeble for some time, having been prostrated by a shock about two months ago, and for the last four weeks had failed rapidly. He was born in Westfield, and had lived on the family homestead in the Hinsdale district all his life. He had exerted a strong influence in many ways, and was held in high esteem by young and old, by whom he was familiarly known as 'Uncle Tom.' He was an active worker in the line of moral reforms, devoting much attention to the subject of temperance. He had been prominent in church work, and was for many years a trustee of the Methodist church at Mundale. His influence in the town had been considerable, and he had held the office of selectman and assessor several terms.

He retired from active business about 10 years ago, selling his farm to E. H. Pardee, with whom he had since lived. He had been married three times, his third wife having died last summer. He leaves six children, three of whom live in this city. They are O. L. Cowles of 108 School street, R. M. Cowles of 46 Acushnet avenue, J. B. Cowles of 16 Broad street, T. M. Cowles of Hartford, W. In a letter dated Council Bluffs, Iowa, July 7, 1894, his son, Calvin C. Cowles, said:

"Father was a Chippewa Indian called Mak-ka-dah-bi-nas-see, born at Fort Mackinac, Mich., about 1812. Thomas Ferry, father of ex-Senator Ferry, was a missionary there when father was a boy and induced him to attend his school. About 1830 [1835-36] he was sent to Oberlin, Ohio, by request of Giles H. Cowles, then a professor at Oberlin College. He was taken as one of the family and given the family name, Edward Cowles. They had lost a son named Edwin, brother of Lysander and Lewis. In 1844 father married a Vermont girl at Dowagiac, Mich. So you see we are in no way related to the Cowles family."

Rev. Giles Hooker Cowles of whom he speaks was a missionary at Austinburg, Ohio, from 1811 to 1830, but was never a professor at Oberlin College. His son Edwin Weed Cowles, b. 1794, raised a family and d. in 1861. Another son, Edward Giles Hooker Cowles, b. in 1801, d. in 1823, was doubtless the son referred to in the above letter.

CAPT. BENJAMIN COWL OF PATTERSON, N. Y.

The following fragmentary record of Capt. Benjamin Cowl and family has been compiled from items collected during the past thirty and odd years, under the belief that he might ultimately be identified as a member of the Cowles family, which was a numerous one in Canaan, Conn., at the time of his birth there in 1763 and for that reason it is inserted here. No record has been found that any Cowl family ever lived in Connecticut, nor does the name Cole or Cowl appear in the indexes of the Town Records of Canaan. The name Cowles was sometimes spelt Cowl, but, so far as known, the spelling of the name Cole was never so varied. The name Cowl is pronounced Kōl.

1. BENJAMIN COWL, whose ancestry is unknown, was b. March 11, 1763, in the town of Canaan, Conn., and d. Dec. 31, 1851, at Patterson, N. Y. He m. (1) Elizabeth Gorham, b. Feb. 28, 1762; d. April 10, 1843; m. (2) Mahetable Darling Craft, May 28, 1843, at Patterson, N. Y., who d. May 5, 1866, aged 91 years, 10 months. He and both wives are buried in the village cemetery at Patterson.

The following is a synopsis of his declaration for a pension, dated Putnam County, N. Y., Sept. 11, 1832. He states that he was born in the town of Canaan, Conn., in 1763; that he has no record of his age, but that his information thereof is derived from the declaration of his parents; that he was living in the town of Fredericksburgh, now the town of Putnam, when called into service; that he has lived in the town of Patterson since the Revolutionary War and now lives there; that in 1782 he volunteered in the Revolutionary service as a soldier, and, on the first of April of said year, joined Captain Livingston's company, which was later attached to Colonel Weisenphelt's regiment, New York Line, at Fishkill, N. Y.; that after lying there about a month he volunteered, with others, to go and join Colonel John Lamb's regiment of artillery at West Point, and there joined Capt. Andrew Moody's company of said regiment; that he served at West Point as a soldier until January 1st and was discharged by his Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant, Ebenezer Stevens, having remained in the service of the United States as a soldier, nine months from the time of his enlistment.

He served one month as private and eight months as matross. His name was placed on the U. S. Pension Roll, Putnam Co., N. Y., April 30, 1833, and he was paid from March 4, 1831. His widow, Mahetable, was also pensioned (see File No. 723, U. S. Pension Office). He was promoted lieutenant from ensign, March 28, 1797; captain, 1804, Dutchess County Militia, and resigned, 1809. Putnam was formed from Dutchess County in 1812.

APPENDIX VII. Economic History of Virginia in the Seventeenth Century, by Bruce, 1907.

Trade with the West Indies began as early as 1633. * * * In a vessel which left Barbadoes in 1661, the Charles of Southton, there were among the consignments for Virginia, six hogsheads of bay salt. In some instances these consignments were restricted to negroes, in others to sugar, rum, and molasses. * * * Bills of exchange were frequently used. Disputed accounts, arising in the course of this trade were carried to the General Court of Virginia for decision., and were ordered settled in kind and not in coin or tobacco. An instance of this nature occurred in 1673, when this body, in a suit by Edmund Cowles against the attorneys of Mr. William Marshall, required the latter to deliver two hogshheads of muscovado sugar, one puncheon of rum, and eighty-five gallons of molasses. (Records of General Court, Page 158.)

The following is a copy of the General Court Record in the case: "October 20th 1673. Judgement is granted Mr. Edmond Cowles against Lt. Col Ch: Moryson Attorney of Mr. Wm. in an act of October 1705 as "From John Goddall's to Williams's neck" or "Drummond's neck" and the same act was in force in 1727.

In an act of 1742 its designation "From Goodall's to Williams's or Drummond's neck" was altered to "From Goodall's to Hamner's Point or Williams's." In the acts of 1748 and 1751, it was designated as "From Cowles' to Williams's and From Cowles' to Hamner's Point."

In the Revised Bills of 1792, it was designated as "From Coles's to Williams's" and in December, 1792, as "From Edloe's land in Charles City to his land in James City and From Edloe's land in Charles City to Armistead's Point." In an act of 1801, it was designated as "From the land belonging to Edloe's Estate, lying in Charles City, across Chickahominy River, at the place commonly called Edloe's Ferry" and in the Revised Bills of 1817 and the Revised Code of 1819, it was designated the same as in the act of December, 1792, after which it is not again mentioned in the laws of Virginia.

It appears as Coles Ferry on James Madison's map compiled about 1808, and as Cole's Ferry (disused) on Military maps, 1861-65.

Hannah M. Cowles, being examined Feb. 22, 1806 privily and apart from her husband, acknowledged that she signed the foregoing deed willingly and voluntarily and relinquished her right of dower in and to the land and premises therein expressed.

It will be observed that Robert Fry did not sign the foregoing deed, as in the preceding one (Appendix XXXIII), and the presumption is that he was not then living, nor does it appear that Elizabeth Fry's title to the land was by right of dower in the estate of her first husband, Thomas Cowles, or her second husband, Robert Fry. However it probably was by right of dower in the estate of her first husband, Thomas Cowles, and as he died intestate, all of his children had a reversionary interest in her dower lands, the law of primogeniture not then being in force in Virginia (see Hening's Statutes). Thomas Cowles was survived by two sons and two daughters but, as the name of only one child, Nathaniel, appears in this and the preceding deeds, the presumption is that he was the only one then living. However this seems improbable and there may have been some other reason for the omission.

The deed described in Appendix XXXIV enables us to locate definitely the site of Cowles Mill, later known as Graves' Mill. It is on Barrows Creek at the crossing, and on the south side of the Charles City C. H.-Edloe's Ferry road, now called the Chickahominy River road, about one mile northeast of Holdcroft P. O., and the site and dam can now (1920) be plainly seen and, at low tide, the place where the wheel sat. Possibly Edmund Cowles owned this mill and the adjacent land prior to 1666 as in that year he and Phillip Charles obtained a patent for 242 acres and 1 rood marsh land described in Appendix V.

About the only use this marsh land could have been put to was for grass and hay for stock, and this leads to the supposition that he had previously settled nearby (see Appendix IX and the records of Nathaniel³ Cowles, Thomas², Thomas¹ of Charles City County, Va., and Edmund² Cowles, Richard¹?).

APPENDIX XXXVI. Letter of Beverly⁵ Cowles (Isaac Sampson⁴, Henry Brown³, Edmund², John¹) of Memphis, Tenn., June 18, 1908.

"108 Poplar St., Memphis, Tenn., June 18, 1908.

Mr. Eugene Cowles,
Shelbyville, Ky.

Dear Sir: * * * *

I know little of my father's people, he being raised an orphan by an aunt, but as near as I can get my Grand Father, Henry Brown Cowles came to Lyon Co., Ky., from or near, Williamsburg, Va. He served in the army of 1812. My Grand Mother's maiden name was Rebecca Sampson, but married a Mr. Hall before my Grand Father. The two sisters who came to Kentucky with him were married. Lucy married a Goodall & Jane married a Holloway. My father had two brothers and 3 sisters named Ann Worthem, Lucy Jane, Martha, William Henry, Edmond Mitcham & Isaac Sampson, my father. All but my father are dead and he is now 76 years old. I know very little of the families of my uncles and aunts except uncle Edmond's, he has 1 daughter by first marriage, dead, and four sons by second marriage still living, two in California, one Jonesboro, Ark., & one, Dyersburg, Tenn. My father's family was five sons and 3 daughters, all dead but one brother James Henry & myself. * * * *

Very Truly Yours,

Beverly Cowles."

* NOTE: In 1704, James City County extended some distance west of the Chickahominy River, but in November, 1720, said river was made the boundary between said county and Charles City County. Possibly part or all of said land now lies in Charles City County and may contain the 242 acres and 1 rood of marsh land granted to Edmund Cowles and Phillip Charles Aug. 6, 1666 (see Appendix V and the record of Col. Thomas Cowles of Charles City Co., Va.).—Compiler.

1. The first of these is the fact that the
 2. University of Chicago is a private institution.
 3. It is not a public university, and therefore
 4. it is not subject to the same regulations
 5. as public universities. This is a very
 6. important point, because it means that
 7. the University is free to set its own
 8. standards and to make its own decisions
 9. about the future of the institution.
 10. This is a great advantage, and it is
 11. one of the reasons why the University
 12. has been able to maintain its high
 13. standards for so long. It is also a
 14. reason why the University is able to
 15. attract the best faculty and the best
 16. students in the world. The University
 17. is free to make its own decisions about
 18. the future of the institution, and it is
 19. this freedom that has made the
 20. University of Chicago what it is today.

21. The second of these is the fact that the
 22. University of Chicago is a research institution.
 23. It is not a teaching institution, and
 24. therefore it is not subject to the same
 25. regulations as teaching institutions. This
 26. is a very important point, because it
 27. means that the University is free to
 28. set its own standards and to make its
 29. own decisions about the future of the
 30. institution. This is a great advantage,
 31. and it is one of the reasons why the
 32. University has been able to maintain its
 33. high standards for so long. It is also
 34. a reason why the University is able to
 35. attract the best faculty and the best
 36. students in the world. The University
 37. is free to make its own decisions about
 38. the future of the institution, and it is
 39. this freedom that has made the
 40. University of Chicago what it is today.

1. The first of these is the fact that the American people are not generally educated in the principles of medicine. This is due to the fact that the medical profession has been largely monopolized by a few large hospitals and universities, which have not been open to the public. As a result, the general public has been left in the hands of a few unscrupulous and ignorant practitioners, who have no other interest than to make as much money as possible. This has led to a general decline in the quality of medical care, and to a corresponding increase in the number of deaths from preventable causes.

The first of these is the fact that the population of the country is increasing rapidly.
 This is due to a number of causes, the most important of which are the increase in the birth rate and the decrease in the death rate. The birth rate has increased because of a number of reasons, the most important of which are the increase in the number of children born to each couple and the decrease in the number of children who die
 before they reach the age of five. The death rate has decreased
 because of a number of reasons, the most important of which are the increase in the number of children who survive the first five years of life and the decrease in the number of children who die
 before they reach the age of five. The result of these changes is that the population of the country is increasing rapidly.

The second of these is the fact that the population of the country is becoming more urban. This is due to a number of causes, the most important of which are the increase in the number of people who live in towns and cities and the decrease in the number of people who live in the countryside.
